4th Ward Joins Conway In Plan To Fight Bridges

South Side Expects To Raise
$500 Of $1,000 Fund For Legal Assistance

PLEDGE $250 AT MEETING

Committee Is Appointed To Canvass Every Street—
Aldermen Commended

Fourth ward opposition to the common council's bridge program, particularly that of building of the Cherry-st viaduct, received another impetus Monday evening when an organization was effected for the raising of funds to employ legal counsel.

This action was taken at a mass meeting in Fourth ward school, called at the request of John Conway leading advocate of the Lake-st viaduct. John Lowe, treasurer of the school board, Fourth district, presided over the meeting.

Handbills giving notice of the mass-meeting had been circulated among the residents of the Fourth ward by pupils of the public and Sacred Heart schools. The meeting was called as a result of a private conference a few days previous.

CRITICIZE COUNCIL
Old scores were reopened at the meeting, and many bitter criticisms of the council were expressed. The persistent opposition of Aldermen Jerry Callahan and William Murphy of the Fourth ward to the bridge program was commended.

It was announced that John Conway is gathering a fund to fight the bridge program in the courts and asked the help of taxpayers of the Fourth ward, since they were declared to benefit most, should the legal battle succeed, and suffer most, should it fail. A sum of more than $1,000 will be needed to carry on the fight, at least $500 should be raised in the Fourth ward, Mr. Lowe announced.

WILL ORGANIZE
Mr. Lowe was at once given authority to appoint a campaign committee which is to meet in the near future to organize teams in order to canvass every street in the ward.

At the same time an effort was made to ascertain how much money could be raised within the meeting itself. By means of a secret subscription, more than $250 was pledged within a few minutes.

On just what legal grounds the fight will be based was not determined. Reference was made to several supreme court decisions that have a bearing on the present bridge program.

HOLD 2 VAGRANTS BECAUSE OF GUN

Two vagrants, one of whom carried concealed weapons, were apprehended Monday by Chief R. H. McCarthy of the Kaukauna police force, following complaints that one of them attempted to obtain money under false pretense.

Roy C. Wilson, who seems to have no fixed residence, but admitted having been a booze runner between Canada and Detroit, was sentenced to ten days imprisonment in the county jail.

Leo Powers, his companion, is being held in the county jail, pending further investigation. He is charged with vagrancy. His case was adjourned until Friday of this week.

Golf Course In Restaurant Proves Popular

By Associated Press
Chicago—Golf with meals instead of a jazz orchestra has been proved a success by a popular Chicago restaurant which recently installed an indoor links in connection with its dining room. Patrons even pay extra for their golf and, back to the cafe where they can spend from 15 minutes to an hour driving into a net, or putting over a miniature links before gathering around the tables for food. Regular customers hold tournaments each week.

After a few days operation of the golf course, many diners who had never seen the game played began to take interest and from the numerous spectators scores of embryo golfers ventured to take up the Scottish game. The course is busy from midday until midnight with players waiting in line to get on the first tee.

EVERETT TO SPEAK ON INDIAN CLAIMS

Eastern Man Will Present Oneida's Case At Open Meeting Wednesday

The address on the Oneida Indian claims in the east that was to be given by Edward A. Everett of New York some time ago, but which was postponed on account of Mr. Everett's illness, has now been made possible, according to a long distance telephone message to the chamber of commerce from Mrs. Laura Cornelius Kellogg, who has been leading the Oneidas in pursuing claims.

Mr. Everett, who was formerly chairman of the Indian commission of New York and is said to speak authoritatively of the validity of the Indians' claims to a large portion of land in that state, will arrive in Appleton Tuesday evening. He will give an address at 7:30 Wednesday evening in the French room of Conway hotel.

Representatives of the chamber of commerce and other commercial and civic organizations as well as persons from Green Bay, Fond du Lac, Seymour and other localities interested in the Oneida claims will be present. The meeting will be public.

Succeeds Hutton, Lawrence College Graduate—Dr. Plantz Attends Meeting

By Associated Press
Milwaukee—David L. McBride, College Springs, Ia., was elected Monday as headquarter committee of the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon league to succeed R. P. Hutton, as superintendent of the league.

Mr. McBride is a brother of Scott McBride, superintendent of the Illinois Anti-Saloon league. He has been connected for some years with the Iowa league.

Samuel Plantz, president of Lawrence college, was present at the meeting of the committee.

Superintendent Hutton is a Lawrence college graduate.

COLD WEATHER DELAYED C. & N. W. TRAIN 12 HOURS

On account of the extremely cold weather Train No. 102 on the Chicago and Northwestern railway, due here at a few minutes before 2 o'clock in the morning, could not get started from Ishpeming, Mich., Sunday evening and as a result arrived in Appleton at about 1:30 Monday afternoon, or nearly 12 hours late.

The train was scheduled to leave Ishpeming at 6 o'clock Sunday evening, but it is presumed that the cold weather interfered with the firing of the boiler. It is the heaviest train on this division of the road, pulling a number of Soo line sleepers coming from Sault Ste. Marie, trains stopping in Appleton have been known to be stalled here for about an hour at a time on accounts of snow or ice on the tracks.

"BOB" LA FOLLETTE IS SMILING AGAIN

Nothing worries Robert M. LaFollette, United States Senator from Wisconsin, now that the war is over—no, not even the obstruction of his Republican associates against him and his progressive bloc. These pictures show it. He had his well-known smile before the war, as shown at left, then it faded, center, and when all the trouble over there was over, back came the smile, right.

ASKS PROBE TO SEE IF FIRMS ARE OVERTAXED

Resolution Is Introduced In Assembly As Result Of Charges Made By Simmons

By Associated Press
Madison—As an outgrowth of the controversy between Governor Blaine and Z. C. Simmons of the Simmons Manufacturing Co., Kenosha, over Wisconsin taxes Assemblyman Thomas Duncanson, Milwaukee, Tuesday introduced a resolution into the lower house of the legislature, requesting the tax commission to advise the state whether its revenue laws have unduly burdened industry.

"Claim is made that the state has placed an unfair tax burden upon the manufacturing industries of this state," the resolution reads. "To determine this the tax commission is directed to furnish the legislature information upon the amount of taxes in which corporations have to pay in a number of representative Wisconsin cities as compared with taxes corporations pay in Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, New York and Massachusetts."

"It is also directed to furnish information to show the effect the income tax has upon the progress of manufacturing in Wisconsin since 1911, and particularly whether this tax has driven industry out of the state, as disclosed by the United States census and other reliable sources of information."

OPEN BRIDGE BIDS TOMORROW NIGHT

Interest Centers In Accuracy Of Investments As To Cost Of Each

By Associated Press
More than ordinary interest is attached to the meeting of the common council Wednesday evening, when the contractors' proposals for the building of Cherry and Lawrence bridges will be formally opened. No bids have thus far been filed with E. L. Williams, city clerk. These usually are received the last day of filing.

Much speculation is in vogue as to the difference between the lowest price submitted and the latest estimate of Harrington, Howard and Ash, Kansas City, Mo., who prepared the bridge plans and specifications. Last summer when steel prices were lower than now, the engineers' estimate on the Cherry-st viaduct was $150,000, and that on the Lawrence bridge, $45,000. On account of the advance in the price of steel, these estimates were raised last December to $200,000 and $65,000 respectively.

Among the committee reports that are to be made Wednesday evening, is one expected from the finance committee fixing salaries of public officials and employees for the ensuing year.

Dry Agents To Be Guests At Michigan Prom

Anna Arbor—A protest to the federal prohibition enforcement director at Detroit against announced plans to send two operatives to the University of Michigan "I. Hop" Friday evening, was in prospect Tuesday. Faculty and students alike were stirred by the report that liquor agents planned to mingle with the guests at the university's leading social event, and the imputation that the dry laws might be infringed. The order by Prohibition Director Davis "bordered on an insult to the 700 young men and their guests and the members of the faculty who are to attend," in the opinion of Dr. Joseph Bursley, dean of men.

Other members of the faculty expressed themselves in a similar vein. President L. Burton had made no statement. With Mrs. Burton he will attend the ball as will dozens of all departments and members of the various faculties, with their wives.

NEW COMMITTEE MAY PICK AGENT

Reorganization Removes Legal Obstacle To Choosing Farm Agent

Appointment of a county agricultural agent was expected to be made in the meeting of the newly reorganized agricultural committee of the county. The committee was to meet Tuesday afternoon in the office of Miss Florence S. Jenkins, secretary of the board, at the courthouse.

One of the legal impediments said to have delayed the appointment of a county farm agent was the inadequate farmer representation. It was learned by D. J. Ryan, chairman of the county board, on a recent trip to Madison. A new board was thereupon appointed, consisting of Mr. Ryan, Robert Carpenter, Mahoe, Charles Schulz, Horton, and Malachi Ryan of Buchanan.

The committee was to examine and possibly take definite action upon applications, of which there are several, but some of which are under consideration to have been withdrawn, because of the delayed action of the committee. The county board at the November session appropriated $3,000 for the farm agent's salary and expenses.

"BOB" CONGRATULATES BLAINE ON ELECTION

Madison—Senator Robert M. LaFollette Tuesday sent a message of congratulation to Governor Blaine on the outcome of the special senatorial primary in the Eleventh Wisconsin district at which M. A. Kemp, LaFollette-Blaine candidate was victorious. The message was:

"Congratulations to you in Superior election. It is another assurance that the people of Wisconsin are unalterably demanding that you shall have the support of a progressive legislature. They have commissioned you to go straight through to the end of the furrow."

Capper, Lenroot-Anderson And Strong Measures Ready For Senate—Wallace Praises Badger Solon's Plan

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1923 By The Post-Pub. Co.
Washington—The first milestone in the farmer's fight for the same facilities of finance as the manufacturer and merchant of industry enjoy has been reached. Three bills passed by the senate now will be put through the house in the next fortnight and president Harding who pledged himself to those measures at the agricultural conference at the white house last Thanksgiving will sign them.

Broadly speaking, the effect of the farm credit legislation will be to reduce interest rates to the farmer. He has been paying 7 and 8 per cent and in some cases as high as 10 per cent to get money while his more fortunate fellow citizens in the marts or urban finances have been getting money for generations at 6 per cent and less. This discrimination has not been one of intent but accident. For the farmer has had no machinery of credit built up for him whereby capital could be secured in orderly fashion and under conditions that would appeal to investors at large.

"I regard the Lenroot-Anderson bill," said Secretary of Agriculture Wallace Monday, "as the response of the administration to the farmer's demand for an effective form of intermediate credit. It will go a long way toward reducing interest rates uniformly and give the farmer the long time credit he needs in the turnover of his products. Both the Capper bill and the Strong bills should also have tremendous benefits."

Mr. Wallace estimated that even if interest rates to the farmer are reduced only one and one-half per cent it would mean the equivalent of a 20 per cent reduction in freights so far as comparative benefits to the farmer are concerned.

CAPPER BILL NOT SUFFICIENT
There is a feeling in some quarters here that the Capper bill ought to be sufficient legislation for the farmer but the farm bloc doesn't think so and neither does Secretary Wallace. It authorizes the formation under federal charter of agricultural credit corporations operating with private capital under the supervision of the comptroller of the currency and makes possible the grant of advances on paper secured by warehouse receipts representing non-perishable commodities and having a maturity not exceeding nine months, on paper secured by chattel mortgages and one-half per cent for market, such paper maturing in not more than nine months, and on paper secured by chattel mortgages on broader, stocker, or dairy herds and maturing in not more than three years. The Capper bill authorizes the incorporation also of rediscount corporations under federal supervision and through these companies undoubtedly the agricultural corporations will have access to city capital.

The measure also extends the life of the War Finance corporation nine months and permits federal banks to lend a maximum of $25,000 instead of $10,000 to any one borrower.

But the champions of the other two bills, namely the Lenroot-Anderson and the Strong bills, while admitting the merits of the Capper bill say it will help the livestock industry chiefly and also those producers who are organized or are likely to be.

TERMS SPURNED RECENTLY ARE ACCEPTED NOW

Britain Is Notified Of Latest
Decision By Ottoman
Delegation

BULLETIN

London—France has notified Great Britain that the Ottoman delegation at Lausanne has agreed to sign all the peace terms.

Reuter's Limited, quoting a French source, says it is confirmed in well informed quarters that the Turks made Marquis Curzon proposals for a separate peace between Turkey and Great Britain. No official details are available.

The Turks decision to accept all the terms which they rejected on Sunday was communicated to the French foreign office, and immediately forwarded to Downing Street.

MAY RESUME PARLEY

Lausanne—It is understood here that Ismet Pasha, head of the Turkish delegation to the Near East peace conference, may be asked by the Allies to delay his departure announced for Wednesday morning, if the negotiations now going on among the chancelleries in Paris, London and Rome result in an agreement to resume negotiations.

UP TO BRITISH

Paris—The reopening of the Near East conference at Lausanne was said in official circles here Tuesday afternoon to depend on the British government's reply to Premier Poincare's note. In his note the French Premier made it known to Lord Curzon, the British foreign secretary, that the Turks were disposed to accept the Allied proposal for a settlement of the capitulations question.

It is understood at the foregoing office that the Turks are ready to resume the conference where it broke off Sunday evening and this is the suggestion Premier Poincare has made to London and Rome with the understanding that none of the questions already settled be reopened.

The break at Lausanne Sunday is attributed in French official circles to the fact that there was friction in the Turkish delegation and that the Turks had not fully appreciated the extent of ground the conference had gone over and that the time had come to bring it to an end.

REACH AGREEMENT

Lausanne—Uzun Nur Bey, of the Turkish delegation to the Near East conference said Tuesday that Turkey and the powers had reached an accord on the jurisdictional capitulations but that there was still financial matters on which an agreement had not been effected.

The Turks announced that they would leave for Angora at 6 o'clock Wednesday morning. They said that offers had been made to eliminate from the treaty the economic clauses to which they had objected, leaving such to further negotiations.

Ismet Pasha early Tuesday telephoned the American delegation asking what time Richard Washburn Child was departing. It was thought the Turkish foreign minister desired to leave the path for definite action open until the last moment.

Ambassador Child and Marquis DiGarroni of Italy left for Rome shortly Tuesday afternoon. Ismet saved them off at the station, but submitted no definite plan for a settlement.

CANNON IS AGAIN INDICTED BY JURY

Received $1,000 Through Fraud Is Latest Charge Against Attorney

Milwaukee—Raymond J. Cannon, attorney, surrendered himself and gave bail late Monday on a second indictment returned against him by the county grand jury.

The second true bill charges that Mr. Cannon obtained money on false pretense in two cases in which he was retained as an attorney.

In one case he is alleged to have told his client that the charges against him were raised from contributing to the delinquency of a minor girl to a much more serious charge, and thereby to have obtained an additional $400 retaining fee and $100 on the pretense that he could keep the story out of the newspapers, the true bill declares.

The second case was that of Frank Demerall who was accused of an offense against Yvonne Repling. Mr. Cannon told this client, according to the indictment, that he must pay $500 more to cover the serious charges that had been lodged against him.

Mr. Cannon was indicted last Friday on the charge of attempting to bribe the district attorney with a case of champagne.

$100,000 FIRE WIPES OUT MADISON PLANTS

Madison—Two fires in the industrial section of Madison, early Tuesday morning resulted in damage estimated at $100,000. The first of the flames occurred in the warehouse of M. Enzelhardt, occupied by the Capital City broom company and a wholesale fruit company. Damage is estimated at $75,000. The second fire occurred in the feed mill of Saul Sinaiko, resulting in a $25,000 loss.

St. Paul Police Car Skids On Ice Street Into Millinery Shop

2 OTHERS REPORTED DYING

Part Of Building Collapses Burying Victim Under Shower Of Brick

By Associated Press

St. Paul—Two St. Paul policemen were killed and four other persons were injured, two critically when a speeding police car skidded on the icy street and crashed into a millinery shop in the residence section. The front of the building collapsed when the police car struck it.

Edwin Earl Hackbert, 30 patrolman, and William Wilson, 40, Negro chauffeur, are the dead. Arthur Haessig and William Kostohrys, patrolmen and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Throckmorton were the injured.

The Throckmortons were precipitated from their bed amid a mass of wreckage when the careening police car smashed the studding from under the front end of the building and brought a shower of bricks and iron beams upon the heads of the patrolmen. Throckmorton and his wife were bruised.

5 HURT AS TRAIN HITS OPEN SWITCH

St. Louis, Ind.—Five persons were injured, one perhaps fatally, in a wreck on the Big Four railroad at St. Mary's, six miles west of here, when passenger train No. 46, St. Louis to New York struck an open switch Tuesday.

Ernest McDonald, fireman, and T. M. Denham, engineer, both of Indianapolis, were seriously injured. McDonald was burned, probably fatally. Three mail clerks were slightly bruised.

Four mail cars and coaches were derailed, but none of the passengers were injured, it was said.

HOLD DOCTOR FOR DEATH OF WOMAN

Milwaukee—Dr. Frank R. Wright, West Allis physician, was named in a criminal warrant late Monday afternoon charging him with manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Ruth Vogelsang, 21, bride of two weeks.

The death of Mrs. Vogelsang occurred early on Sunday at St. Joseph's hospital, and brought to light a secret elopement and marriage at Waukegan.

Shortly after coroner's physicians reported that death was due to complications caused by an alleged illegal operation, Paul Dorsch, special investigator for the district attorney, arrested the physician. The warrant was issued and bail set at $2500.

The complaint charges that the operation was performed Thursday night. When the girl's condition became critical on Saturday, she was removed to the hospital.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anton A. Schneider, 741 Forty-sixth-st. On Jan. 23 she eloped to Waukegan with Oliver Vogelsang, an artist and government student, where they were married. They lived at 3425 Cedar-st.

FAIR PROFITS IN TRADE PROMISED IN 1923 OUTLOOK

Enlargement Of Demand Looms
As Consumers Increase
Buying Ability

Business conditions during the past week have been productive of much encouragement and point to further enlargement of demand, according to the weekly summary by James B. Clews of Henry Clews and company, bankers, New York.

Both the Steel Corporation and the independent report plants working at a high capacity, the report says, while transportation and manufacturing lines in almost all branches of business show excellent results, both present and prospective, so far as actual business is concerned. The percentage of unemployment has been exceptionally low, and this indicates unusual buying power on the part of the community. Such buying power is amply reflected in the reports of retail establishments which for the past month are much ahead of last year, while at the same time there has been no accumulation of stocks. Goods are not only being produced, but they are being sold and consumed—a healthy condition from the general business standpoint.

STOCKS STRONGER
One of the most favorable indications of recent weeks has been afforded by the strength of some of the Standard railway stocks growing out of the improved earnings situation as illustrated by December returns. These are confirming the earlier predictions that 1922 earnings will amount to at least 4.25 per cent and are going far to offset the strike losses which have apparently been in large measure recovered, especially on some of the roads. The report of the Steel Corporation does not show as good a net earning for the last quarter of 1922 as had been expected, but the market has already fully discounted this showing. It does at least show progress toward a profitable situation and it should be remembered that both in its case and in that of Bethlehem the labor.

If these conditions were remedied there should be a satisfactory indication of profit as warranted by the activity of the industry. Current business indicates difficulty of making a good balance sheet showing does not lie in lack of demand or in low prices, but in the abnormal levels of wages and in the scarcity of such a condition. In a number of other lines, notably in the oil and copper and woolen textiles the general level of wholesale prices, as shown by index numbers, is nearly stable, a fact which makes strongly for the general solidity of business and ought to contribute greatly to the disposition of producers to place their orders for the necessary demands of their plants with substantial assurance of normal conditions. In banking, the credit situation is much less than it was some time past. Business appears amply able to finance itself without undue reliance on the banks, and this leaves an unusual supply of cash free for use in the investment market. This accounts for the abundance of loanable funds placed here by interior institutions which are able to carry a good deal of paper in addition to that offered to them by their regular customers in their own localities. The Federal Reserve system shows little advance in its bill holdings due to the ability of the members to provide in large measure for their own necessities and its reserve in consequence remains at the high figure of 76.9 per cent.

A HOPEFUL OUTLOOK
Notwithstanding the unfavorable outlook abroad the best observers of domestic business continue to forecast prosperous times for the coming spring and summer. A number of factors looking in that direction have already been definitely noted. Among them is the fact that Congress will shortly adjourn and will relieve the country of the danger of further meddling with trade and economic conditions inasmuch as it now seems sure that no extra or emergency session will be summoned. This should give the nation a vacation, of some eight months. There is a general and urgent demand for goods which is taking form in good orders. There is ground for thinking that large capital investments will be made as the result of offerings of securities now on the market or shortly to come on the market. This should result in an increase of building and of construction of all kinds. Internal improvements are being planned by some of the States out of the proceeds of bonds and whatever may be thought of the policy of issuing "tax exempt" the use of their proceeds will create early demands for commodities. A survey of stocks of commodities in various lands throughout the country shows that they are at a comparatively low level which means that they must be restored as soon as conditions will allow.

MARKET REVIEW
In these circumstances it is not strange that signs of accumulation of shares of sound companies are noted and that the market is resisting all the pressure to which it is subjected with an unusual degree of success. So far as the general market is concerned, there is no particular change in conditions. Our market has been disposed to ignore the serious situation abroad, believing that home affairs were sufficiently satisfactory to warrant current quotations, and while this in probably true, it goes without saying that the unfavorable cable ad-

Here's Secret Of Accession To City Office

The stepping-stone to public office has at last been found. The secret of acquiring office and retaining it is not popularity, nor is it politics, nor is it influence. Theodore Berg, city attorney, E. L. Williams, city clerk, J. C. Pfeil, poor commissioner, and George Merkel, deputy health officer, will tell you what it is. It is apprenticeship.

All four of these officeholders have served their apprenticeship in a meat market. They know what is demanded and what is not. They demand correct weight and get it, and no butcher leaves his hand on the scales while they are about.

That is why every butcher is obsessed with an inordinate fear of this quarter, lest one of them will not buy for the year, lest another inspect at the inopportune time. Lest another prescure, lest another fail to give his imperial sanction of meat markets in general.

JACKIE COOGAN SCORES BIGGEST TRIUMPH AS UNIQUE "OLIVER TWIST"

That little Jackie Coogan has finally come into the period of his greatest possibilities was the opinion of those filling throngs at the Elite theater yesterday when "Oliver Twist" was presented. That Jackie Coogan with his precocious genius and his marvelous instinct for acting, all the opportunities the role of Oliver afforded him was equally certain, and that he will have extended his circle of admirers by many millions more throughout the world, is in the nature of an axiom, so sure it is.

An inherently vigorous story has been welded of pieces of the original Dickens novel and this welding process is entirely Frank Lloyd's who not only adapted the scenario from the book but directed the making of the picture with his usual—indeed unusual—skill. Nothing that Lloyd has done is a finer manifestation of the director's scope of vision. His understanding of human emotions and his capacity to handle intimate scenes with feeling and tumultuous episodes like that of the chase after Oliver and the capture of Fagin with powerful, thrilling realism were fully disclosed.

Producer Leeder did not content himself with just one star, either. He surrounded his principal luminary with the best players available for the various roles. Lon Chaney's Fagin merits an article all his own, so graphic and perfect was the picture of "the merry old gentleman." In a single word it is Chaney's most effective piece of portraiture.

Gladys Brockwell's Nancy Sikes was begun in a sordid key and developed with finely graded touches to heights of self-sacrificing nobility. George Seigmann's Bill Sikes, Lionel Belmore's Mr. Brownlow, Lewis Sargent's Noah Claypole, Joan Standing Clarissa, James Marcus' Mr. Bumble, Agnes Herring's Mrs. Corney, Edouard Trebaud's Mr. Dawkins (the Artful Dodger) Taylor Graves' Charley Bates, Eddie Boland's Toby Crackitt and all the rest of them deserve serious attention for the artistic manner in which they accomplished their task of clothing the characters of Charles Dickens' "Oliver Twist" with the flesh of reality and the spirit of truth.

"Oliver Twist" which is a First National Attraction, will remain at the Elite theater for 3 more days.

Vices which are received from day to day must at least have a deterrent effect on would-be buyers, which of itself is sufficient to obstruct any sustained upward movement of import prices for the time being. As noted in previous articles, however, the floating supply of stocks is comparatively small, especially of the rails, and this precludes the idea that there is to be any serious liquidation. Without this there is little likelihood of any setback of consequence taking place; in the long run the line of least resistance will be found to be upward, as everything now points to 1923 as a profitable year for manufacturers and merchants in this country. Fortunately, money supplies are liberal; otherwise, pressure to sell stocks would be more of a feature.

I SPIED TODAY

Jackie Coogan lived up to his advertised reputation in "Oliver Twist" which opened a four day engagement at the Elite theatre on Monday. Coogan is seen at his best in the famous old Dickens' play and won the hearts of the spectators.

Free tickets to this great attraction and to the other splendid programs offered by the Elite are issued to persons whose items are printed in I Spied Today. There is no easier way of earning ones amusement than by making this section interesting. Be sure you state all the facts in an interesting way. Tickets should be called for at the Post-Crescent office immediately after publication of the items.

YOU'RE SO SUSPICIOUS
While walking by the Conway Hotel Saturday, I saw an elderly man known by everyone to be a very staunch church goer, and very decidedly against smoking and drinking. I imagine my surprise when I noticed him take a small bottle from his pocket, glance about to see that no one observed, and then take a drink! He then walked into the Conday hotel barber shop.

When I jokingly mentioned the circumstance to his wife, I felt the joke was on me for I learned that the bottle contained a disinfectant. He always partakes of the contents before entering any public place.

CAT ATE IT RAW
Saturday evening, while in a College-ave grocery, I saw a woman come in, carrying a basket full of edibles, which she put down on the floor near the door, while she attended to her shopping. A package of meat was at the top of the basket. When the woman had finished her errands, and turned to get her basket before leaving the store, she discovered the wrapping paper torn from the meat, and a part of the meat gone. At the same time the store cat, wedged an air of bland innocence, sat, leaning against her position near the basket and waltz serenely behind the counter, licking her chops and looking contentedly upon the world.

SO STINGY HE SWEAKS
Saturday afternoon I saw a grocer do the stingiest thing that I have ever seen. A little girl came into the store and putting down a penny, asked for a banana. The grocer selected a small one, put it on the scales and weighed it. Then he cut it in two and gave half to the little girl. She was certainly an amazed little customer.

HORSE THREW HIS RIDER
Two girls and a man were horse-back riding in Kimberly at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon. A car passed by and one of the horses became frightened and stood on his hind legs. The girl who was riding him flew into the air. She was not hurt, however.

CAN YOU IMAGINE THAT?
Do you remember how cold it was on Saturday morning? I was in a store on Oneida-st when a little boy came in. He was warmly dressed and had heavy fur mittens on. He bought an ice cream cone and with it in his hands went out into the cold to eat it.

HE WAS A GENTLEMAN
There was only one gentleman in the Junction car in which I was riding Saturday evening and he was a very young boy. A woman got on with two boys and although the car was crowded, all three of them found seats. At the next stop another woman got on. There was no place. There were men in the car but the courtesies were left for the youngerster.

WALKED TO OSHKOSH
I was in Oshkosh on Saturday afternoon and saw an old man on the street nearly paralyzed with the cold. I learned that he had walked all the way from Appleton with the weather below zero. Although I did not ask, I was wondering why an old man like that would have to walk so great a distance in such cold weather.

WILLING TO PROCEED WITH PLANS FOR H. S.

Architects To Design Junior Schools In Units To Fit Appropriation

When the signing of the contract of Perkins, Fellows & Hamilton, architects for the new junior high schools, came up at the meeting of the board of education at Appleton high school Monday afternoon, Paul V. Cary suggested that the board proceed slowly as to binding itself for any further expense until after the common council took final action in regard to the bond issue.

While the object in the delay has been to save interest on the bonds, he expressed the opinion that the time had arrived for the passage of the final resolution by the council. This would assure the board that the necessary funds will be provided. He said he offered the suggestion in order to be on the safe side. He did not know what action the council would take in regard to the additional funds required, he said.

MUST HASTEN PLANS
D. H. Perkins, who submitted a sketch of the proposed new buildings to the board, said that Sept. 1, 1924, the date when the new structure was to be completed, was dangerously close and in order to avoid further delay he was willing to take the chance of proceeding with the plans so as to submit them to the board and common council as soon as possible. He said he felt justified in doing this because the buildings are an absolute necessity and nothing can stop the increasing attendance of the schools.

The architect said his company is preparing the plans in such a way that the city can erect the buildings in units, if necessary. There will be four of these, making it possible to expend at one time only such funds as are available. Provision is also to be made for future extensions up to 1,000 pupils.

RELUCTANCE EXPLAINED
It was brought out at the meeting the reason the board of education has not appeared before the common council relative to the plans or additional amount of funds required is because up to the present time it has had nothing tangible to present.

Miss Helena Loeper of Bridgeport, Conn., was engaged to succeed Miss Helen Sugerman, resigned, in the commercial department. Miss Loeper, who is 27 years old, was allowed, due to increased office work, Principal L. C. Casey was authorized to secure additional help whenever required. Former action of the board relative to securing an option on the Clark property near the west end of triangle north of block 82 for school purposes was recommended. The board's report showed 27 cases had been investigated during the month of January.

JOANNES RETIRES FROM BIG CONCERN
Was President Of Green Bay Wholesale House For More Than 50 Years

Mitchell Joannes, for more than 50 years head of the Joannes Bros. Grocery company of Green Bay, has retired as president, and will spend some time in travel and attending to matters of personal interest.

Mr. Joannes, who has many acquaintances among the business men of Appleton, began his career as a farm hand at the age of eight years, and retired as the head of what is said to be the largest wholesale grocery business in the state.

The firm of Joannes Bros. began business as a retail establishment in 1872, when the first stock of goods was purchased. The firm then included three brothers, Charles, Mitchell and Thomas.

The retirement of Mr. Joannes places the business in the hands of the sons of the original partners who have been active members of the firm a number of years.

TALL PINES SAWED INTO LUMBER AT LOCAL PLANT
Those old Wisconsin pineries where the pines towered justly have become nearly extinct. Yet a small tract of these trees seemed to have escaped the woodman's axe on the Keshena Indian reservation. But it will not be long before this also is denuded for a large portion of it is finding its way into Appleton.

Standard Manufacturing company of Appleton on Monday began sawing on a government shipment of pine logs that were felled on this reservation. There is 450,000 feet in the lot. Although there is a large sawmill at Keshena itself, the trees are cut in a distant corner of the reservation; therefore, to save freight expense, they were shipped to Appleton.

LUMBER DEALERS WILL MEET IN MILWAUKEE
The Wisconsin Lumber Retail Dealers' association of which William Fountain is a member of the board of directors will hold its thirty-third annual convention at Hotel Bristol, Milwaukee, Feb. 13, 14 and 15. Copies of the program have been received by Appleton dealers, the majority of whom are planning to attend.

Contest Ads Gems To Poems Dedicated To Mother

Valuable additions to the poetry dedicated to mothers are being made by the persons who are participating in the contest conducted by the Post-Crescent. A large number of very excellent poems have been received and there is every indication that the judges will find their task of picking the three best poems from the dozens of good ones really difficult. It is impossible to print each day all the poems that are received so a few are selected at random for publication.

The contest, for which $10 in prizes is offered, will close at noon on Wednesday, Feb. 13, and the prize winners will be announced on Valentine day.

CONTEST RULES
All readers of the Post-Crescent, except employees of the newspaper, are eligible.

Names must be original. The contest will close at noon on Tuesday, Feb. 13. The winners will be announced Wednesday, Feb. 14, St. Valentine day.

Prizes will be awarded on the basis of sentiment, originality, metre and neatness of the poetry. Names and addresses of authors must accompany the poems. Names of authors will be detached before the poems are submitted to the judges.

Poems will be printed daily with the initials of the authors. Readers may submit as many poems as they wish but only one prize will be given to one person.

Awards will be $5 for first prize, $3 for second prize and $2 for third prize.

Every reader of The Post-Crescent is invited to participate. Read the contest rules printed herewith and send in your contribution at once.

No theme offers as many possibilities as affection for mother. Since the dawn of the world millions of people have struggled for the words which will adequately express their love for their parent. Many of the purest gems of literature are mother love poems and each year more masterpieces are added.

The Post-Crescent invited its readers to express their love for mother in original verse. The contribution should be mailed or brought to the Valentine editor without delay.

Originality of the verse is one of the most important factors to be considered by the judges. They will also consider metre, rhyme, sentiment and neatness of the manuscript.

Here are a few of the many poems submitted on Monday:

My Mother
From infancy through childhood's years
She wrapped me round with tenderness;
And griefs and cares of later years
She lightened with her soft caress.

Youth's gilded dream may shatter
be;
Friends may forget, love's ardor cool.
Constant and true will ever be
My mother's love! O priceless jewel!

Because God wanted joy on earth
He made a mother for man.
To guide and guard and safely keep
With prayers, as only mother can.

The sweetest gift we can bestow
With our heartfelt emotion,
Is honor, love, respect and trust
And a life of deep devotion.

My Mother
Each day, each month, each passing year
Makes mother's love to me more dear.

Her cares and thoughts and kindly deeds
Are requisite unto my needs.

The older now—her tender ways
Still lead me as in childhood days—
Lost worldly thoughts my hearts enslave,
I bless her name each night in prayer.

Thru childhood's peaceful vale, we wandered hand in hand,
My inmost thoughts she knew, and seemed to understand.

Thru flowery meads of pleasures
bright and darker days of fear,
The dark to me was always light for her dear form was near.

But then we came to the end of the lane that barred by a golden gate
Alas she passed thru and left me there,
so I turned to wait.

Oh, God be thanked for the memory of her and the love that is still with me,
And pray that in the future, I may like my mother be.

'RELOADING' PLAN USED AS BAIT IN STOCK SWINDLES
Millions Lost When Victim Pays In More To Recoup Present Losses

BY EDWARD A. SCHWAB
New York—Throwing good money after bad is indulged in to the extent of millions of dollars by suckers who do not take the trouble to investigate.

There is a scheme called "reloading," which, in certain instances may be legitimate.

Often, however, it is merely a system of unloading in a worthless stock upon suckers who have lost the money already invested but don't know it.

Or if the stock isn't already worthless, it is apt to become so through this high finance.

"Re-loading" pays the get-rich-quick salesman because it is based on the natural weakness of people to jump for something which they think other people can't get—a desire to "get on the ground floor," or, in other words, to be one of the favored few.

The fake "re-loading" company selects a firm in a depleted financial condition which has unsold treasury stock. This stock is purchased on favorable terms and the "re-loaders" install a selling organization equipped with a stockholders' list. The selling organization usually takes a name similar to that of the company in question.

Adapted salesmen then approach the stockholders and by means of statements, innuendoes and inferences create the impression that the company is approaching prosperity, that the sale of unsold treasury stock has been limited to present stockholders and that a syndicate is about to take over the company's stock at an advanced price, with a "killing" prospect.

In one such "re-loading" case the slippery selling organization contracted with a legitimate company to sell new stock at $5.00 a share. But instead of selling new stock it bought old stock in the open market at from $3 to $5 a share and sold it to stockholders at $40 per share on the claim that it could soon be disposed of in a syndicate killing at $50.

The swindlers' profit was nearly $23 a share. The company was not bettered financially, but lost the stockholders' confidence. And the "re-loaded" stockholders lost all, or virtually all, of the money they had invested.

Millions Use It—Fine for Hair! —Not Sticky, Greasy or Smelly

Even obstinate, unruly or shaggy hair stays combed all day in any style you like. "Hair-Groom" is a dignified combing cream which gives that natural gloss and well-groomed effect to your hair—that final touch to good dress both in business and on social occasions.

Grainless, stainless "Hair-Groom" does not show on the hair because it is absorbed by the scalp, therefore your hair remains so soft and pliable and so natural that no one can possibly tell you used it. Drug stores, adv.

FAMOUS SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA DRAWS CAPACITY CROWD
Minneapolis Musical Organization Will Play Two Concerts Here Tomorrow

Preparations will be completed Tuesday for the concert by the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra in Lawrence Memorial chapel Wednesday afternoon and evening. The orchestra will come here in a special train from Madison where it plays a concert Tuesday night.

The seat sale has been satisfactory. It is probable that every seat in the spacious chapel will be occupied when the program begins at 8:15. Hundreds of music lovers from Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Neenah, Menasha, Green Bay, Kaukauna and other cities and villages near here have made reservations for seats. There has been a widespread appreciation of the unusual musical opportunity, according to George H. Beckley, who is managing the concert here.

Wednesday afternoon's program, beginning at 3:30 is for children. Schools in Appleton, Neenah and Menasha have made arrangements for sending their children en masse to the chapel. Teachers are urging the youngsters to be on their best behavior during the concert. It is explained that the concert can present its program to the best advantage only if the children give it their closest attention. Adults also will be admitted to the afternoon concert if they show their tickets for the evening concert and pay the matinee admission.

The Minneapolis Symphony orchestra is making only three stops in Wisconsin, visiting Madison, Appleton and Milwaukee. The fact that the orchestra consented to stop in Appleton is a tribute to the musical appreciation of this city, it is said.

BILLS PROMISING FARM RELIEF WILL GET HARDING O. K.

organized in cooperative associations. The latter can make advances to individual producers because the cooperative has a binding contract to market the crop. The purpose of the Lenroot-Anderson bill is to reach the individual farmer who is not in a cooperative and who needs money for farm improvements or to handle crops with a long turnover of credit.

Under the Lenroot-Anderson bill credit departments will be formed in the federal farm land banks. The initial capital of the twelve banks will total $60,000,000 and further capital will be obtained by selling debenture bonds in the open market. Ultimately these bonds ought to sell for about five and a half per cent at which figure the present farm loan bonds used in starting the land banks are selling. The federal land banks at present however, lend money on mortgages which are secured of course by the land itself. The farmer, however, in the recent depression didn't have anything to offer as collateral because he was already mortgaged to the limit. He had the skill to raise a crop and the land but not the capital to see him through.

In the business world he would get capital largely on the strength of his ability to produce and his character and reliability. But the farmer who went to the country banks found them fearful of lending for any more than ninety days and frequently were unable to renew because of apprehensions concerning the need of funds by the larger banks in other channels of trade.

CAN GET LONG CREDIT
Under the new bills the farmer can in some cases get three years' credit. There would be set aside capital for agricultural purposes which cannot be disturbed by needs of other industries. In order to make the new farm loan bonds attractive it is proposed to make them tax exempt. Secretary Mellon doesn't like this because he says it is inconsistent with the administration's effort to abolish all tax exemptions by constitutional amendment. But the answer of the farm bloc is that the farm loan bonds issued for mortgage purposes now are tax exempt and that other tax exemptions are in the market now and until all tax exempt securities are forbidden by the constitution which may take two or three years to get through all state legislatures, the farmers might as well go into the borrowing market on as attractive terms as possible.

The Strong bill would correct certain defects in the farm land bank organizations permitting government supervision instead of allowing them to be indifferently managed by private hands. On the whole the administration is proud of the farm program and feels the agrarian movement in this country will be considerably calmed by what has been done.

NULLIFYING THE FEDERAL CONSTITUTION

Shades of John C. Calhoun and his strange and discarded theory of nullification appeared to rise and take form in an editorial of the Chicago Tribune late in January, entitled "Annulment of Constitutional Prohibition?" Since its publication so many law-loving citizens have denounced the editorial as a treasonable and law defying utterance that the Tribune has followed it up with a declaration that it had no intent other than to state "facts" about the annulment of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments and suggest that the eighteenth amendment "might go the same way."

This self-whitewashing in no way absolves the Tribune, which not only suggested that the eighteenth amendment was capable of nullification but made the suggestion so attractive, wrote the editorial in so obviously a wet spirit, and cited so many reasons to show that annulment was possible and had been tried successfully before, that it would be difficult for any wet organization or individual not to seize upon the idea with more or less conviction.

It is well known that the Association Against the Prohibition amendment, as one of its credos, asks of its membership adherence to a scheme of taking enforcement out of the hands of the federal government and leaving its degree entirely up to the states. In other words, the Tribune is espousing—in tenor if not in words—a proposition already advanced, the very offer of which, unless accompanied by discouraging and adverse comment, is an incitement to violation of federal law on the false basis of states' rights which do not exist. The Tribune preferred, in the editorial at issue, to hand out the suggestion without any such offset.

Not only the Tribune's spirit but its high-held "facts" are at fault. The fifteenth amendment, providing that the right to vote shall not be abridged on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude, is not annulled but pretty carefully regarded by those who see to it that the negro does not vote. The method has been to set up intelligence and other legitimate tests which have practically eliminated the colored element at the polls, and have, on the whole, settled temporarily a problem with which the south has to live continually, and the north, so fond of criticising, does not. The "annulment" charged by the Tribune is a favorite bait of Republican politicians but it seems to be very difficult to dig up facts showing that there is a deliberate break with the amendments discussed. They were brought up, as seems obvious in the first Tribune editorial if not in the second, for convenient ammunition in a wet argument.

Nullification as a theory lived and died back in the days when South Carolina was fighting tariff laws, along in 1832 and 1833. Calhoun classically expressed this theory, saying that the states had not abrogated their individual sovereignty when they joined the union, and that the federal government was merely their agent; that if any state decided congress was exceeding its constitutional powers that state could "nullify" any federal law it deemed unconstitutional. Andrew Jackson rightly declared this nation could not endure under any such theory, and it was his opinion against state rights which ultimately prevailed, though a war had to be fought to decide it for all time.

The Tribune is reviving a dangerous idea. If it is against annulment, as it seeks to indicate, let it come out honestly against all prohibition nullifiers and call upon them to cease defiance of the constitution, instead of leaving the right or wrong hung up, with a question mark, in thin air. Wet outlawry is a serious problem, the solution of which will not be hastened by such statements as the Tribune's that "The prohibition amendment will remain in the constitution. Many generations will find it there, but it can be annulled where it is not wanted."

A STEP TOWARD ECONOMIC RECONSTRUCTION

Secretary Mellon and the members of the American debt commission told the British mission last month that if congress would broaden their powers to permit them to do so they would give Britain the reasonable time of 62 years to pay the war debt and the reasonable rate of 3 per cent, increased at the end of a decade to 3½ per cent. The cabinet of Great Britain replies that if the Harding administration can persuade congress to broaden the powers of the debt commission as thus suggested the British people will accept these terms and pay us both principal and interest of her four billion dollar obligation.

It is the immediate business of congress to make this amendment. The definite funding of this debt will mean not only a definite and needed income but a forward step—the first great advance taken to date—toward world economic reconstruction, toward confidence and a renewal of the creed of good faith.

The funding will enable America and Britain to face general debt conditions eye to eye in a common policy. Great Britain could have taken no action better calculated to inspire increased American friendship.

THE LELANDS ARE EXONERATED

A year ago when the first great hullabaloo was being raised about an alleged $9,188,561 "stolen" by the Lincoln Motor company from the government on war contracts, many well informed individuals maintained that the charges should be taken with a barrel of salt, as the Lelands, builders and proprietors of the Lincoln plant which has passed in bankruptcy to Henry Ford, enjoy a substantial reputation for integrity both of character and of product.

It now turns out that this scepticism was wholly justified, government examiners having discovered that "there was no juggling of figures, no fraud in the procuring of contracts, and no inducement offered by officials of the Lincoln Motor company to representatives of the government." All mistakes made were by government operatives and the receivers of the company have turned over without protest the $1,500,000 to which these errors total.

PUTTING IDEAS TO WORK

You may pose for a photograph and receive a cameo or relief of yourself. Mr. P. M. Edmunds, of Brighton, England, who has invented a new art cameo-graphy, is on the way to the United States to demonstrate it. Those who have seen his works, produced by a mechanical means, say that the cameo can hardly be distinguished from sculptures.

Little is known so far of the Edmunds process, as he has kept it secret. Mr. Edmunds uses two cameras. The subject is photographed in a bright light through a specially designed screen. Then the photograph is executed, in relief, in marble, plaster, alabaster or metal, by a secret process.

Mr. Edmunds is an electrical engineer. His discoveries is simply the result of an inspiration. He thought that if sound could be reproduced mechanically, as by the phonograph, form could be reproduced. Progress in chemistry and mechanics, made his idea look like one that might be easily realized. Engineers are capable mathematicians, and the importance of mathematics in connection with reproducing form was not only plain, but made the inspiration seem to be decidedly practical.

The world would be even farther along in invention and in material advancement if every good idea were worked out, or for that matter were passed along to some one who would take earnest interest in it. An idea has no merit, or but a trifle, as an idea. It is but a suggestion. Its value arises when it is so applied as to become of use or benefit. An idea is a vision, a hint. It is insubstantial, and may fly away as suddenly as it came. It may never return. An idea becomes worth while when it is accepted for study and development, and it is only of service when it is put in use, either in words or in material products. An idea becomes something through use. All progress is the result of ideas. Invention comes from the brain. But it must be remembered that those persons are the ones who achieved, who recognized the possibilities and developed ideas.

The dreamer has great ideas, many of which would be of consequence if adapted. But he does not put them to work, or rather, he does not work them out. Each new achievement creates new ideas in the line of progress. It is work that really effectuates progress.

A LITTLE MORE MUSTARD

Yesterday, as the readers may recall, we got some mustard "off our chest," without blistering the chest, thus smartly differentiating the intelligent from the Sairey school of nursing. We have a little more mustard today; I am going to put my foot in it. I do not advocate bathing in public, but I have always held that there is no great danger in getting the feet wet, if hot water and mustard are used to wet them with it can be done even with the patient's pastor standing by.

A hot mustard foot bath neither drives out the cold—any scientist will tell you there is not such thing as a cold—nor remove any significant amount of poison or waste matter from the system by way of the sweat. The h. m. f. b. does rather as an early or late remedial measure in any acute respiratory infection such as coryza, coryza, bronchitis, tonsillitis, pneumonia or influenza by equalizing the circulation, withdrawing blood from the head or chest, say, and distributing it more evenly through the whole circulation, particularly the surface vessels.

Sweating induced by the h. m. f. b. is just a good indication that this desirable effect is being produced. The foot bath may be good, even though profuse sweating does not occur, provided the general skin surface grows flushed and warm. The popular notion that sweat carries poison or waste matter out of the system is not based on physiological fact but probably arises from the fact that the sweat when retained by improper clothing, tends to decompose and give rise to disagreeable odors. Bad odors have always been associated with poison or danger in the minds of unenlightened persons, as witness the popular beliefs about disease arising from sewer gas, from decaying animal matter and other malarious though harmless nuisances. Alas, the deadly dangers are odorless, as witness carbon monoxide gas and botulism and tetanus, as witness water polluted by typhoid and sometimes both ignorant and innocent, as witness the polite boy who sneezes in your face as he sneezes, laughs or talks with you when he has a "slight cold." When you come down with it he tells you you must have taken your bat off at somebody's funeral or got your feet wet going home from the movies. That is the way public health is sometimes taught. It pleases the plain people.

There is an important vasomotor nervous connection between warmth of hands and feet and the general circulation. The vasomotor nerves, part of the sympathetic or involuntary nervous mechanism, control the calibre of the small arteries; varying dilation and contraction of the small arteries determine the distribution of blood. So when mother or grandmother feels a youngster's feet she is unconsciously gauging the state of the circulation, though she is consciously trying to find whether the child is warm enough. A big number of cold feet and cold hands, maybe red noses, spells badly trained vasomotor nerves. Coddling—too much on wraps and furs and so on, a light weight woolen underclothing, never cotton, keeps the v-m nerves on the job. Mustard, did you say? Oh, well, tomorrow.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Scarlet Fever

If a child ill with scarlet fever has his school books in the sickroom is it safe to let him bring the books when he returns to school?—C. M.
Answer—In my judgment, yes, although your local health board regulations may not permit it.

Green Banner Unites Islam

(Elizabeth Tittel, in Asia Magazine.)

"God is great! God is great! God is great! God is great!" Five times a day, from thousands of minarets, thousands of "muezzins" call the Moslem world to prayer. Five times a day the call echoes through the vast, from Africa to far-off China, and millions of persons, different in race and language, but bound together in the great unity called "Islam," prostrate themselves before the one God.

"I bear witness that there is no god but God." The voice of the muezzin, following an ancient and beautiful melody, rises and falls in minor cadences. "I bear witness that Mahomet is the prophet of God. Come to prayer! Come to prayer!"

Already the streets of the middle eastern city are full of worshippers dressed, their fozzes forming a lingering touch of oriental color; comfortable merchants with silken garments flapping about their ankles; ragged camel-drivers, unshorn and with the wildness of the desert in their eyes; veiled women in twos and threes like black ghosts. "La ilaha illa Allah"—"There is no god but God."

Not only in mosques, but in houses, in streets, by the roadside, in the trackless desert, men are paying their tribute to Him, the omnipresent. A marvelous force is Islam, with great potentialities for good and for evil. Its peoples, hemmed in and threatened by the west, rally about the one standard they all recognize—the green banner of the prophet. What will be the outcome?

Villagers Lead Fast Lives Now

(From Life.)

"When I started selling goods to the Jonesville merchants years ago they called it a gay winter if they had a concert by the Swiss bell ringers; now they demand a play every night with an original cast, and if a manager runs in a second company they take it up with the chamber of commerce."

"They used to take their wives home from 'East Lynne' at 10 o'clock and brag the next day about being out late; now they go from the New Palace theater to the College Inn and from the College Inn to the Olympian room of the Hotel New Trianon—that's the old Smith house—and if they beat their sons or daughters home they worry for fear they are getting old."

"Darning at home has come to be an occasion. These old boys used to brag about their wives' coffee; today they will bring writing fluid if it is poured by a South European brigand with a soiled napkin over his arm. The old fashioned fellow who kept an alpaca coat hanging on a nail in his office now has a dress suit parked behind the red gum door of his sanctum."

"Jonesville nights have become so fevered that my customers look forward to their trips to New York or Chicago so they can get some sleep."

The Question Box

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederick J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau cannot give advice on legal, medical and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor to undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. What kind of fur is kolinsky? M. C. R.

A. Among furriers, the name is given to any one of several Asiatic minks. It was primarily the name of a Russian mink from the district of Kola in northwestern Russia.

Q. How does the number of immigrants that come to this country compare with the number of alphas? A. Statisticians do not assign reasons for the departure of alphas from our country. During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, there were 99,556 immigrant aliens admitted to the United States and 138,712 emigrant aliens departed.

Q. How many Mormons went into Utah originally? T. P.

A. Brigham Young led a company of 143 men, three women and two children into the Salt Lake Valley in the spring and summer of 1847.

Q. Did Vallandigham, the famous Ohio "copperhead," die a natural death or was he killed? A. T. N.

A. Vallandigham's death was tragic, but was accidental. He was engaged as attorney in a murder case and was illustrating to the jury the manner in which the victim was shot, when he fatally shot himself with the pistol he held in his hands.

Q. What do Africaner cattle have to have for food? N. N. G.

A. These cattle can thrive where others would starve and can live off the veritable blade of grass. They are suited for the western plains not only because of their ability to survive on short rations, but also on account of their remarkable resistance to disease and their "camel" attribute of going a long way without water. A dressed carcass of a full grown steer raised on the range weighs from 600 to 800 pounds. The average percentage of dressed weight to live weight is from 60 to 61.5 per cent.

Q. What is a sea cock? C. W.

A. A sea cock is an injection cock inserted in the side of a steamship, and leading from the sea to the condenser. It is supplementary to the regular injection cock through which supplies of water are admitted to the condensers of marine engines.

Q. What are winter golf rules? P. K.

A. Winter rules vary with different courses. The purpose is to save wear and tear on the course at the season when the turf is most easily destroyed, and as a general proposition they provide that players shall improve the lie of their balls, or tee them up, through the fairways. In some clubs the use of rubber tees is encouraged, and in others the players improve their lie in the rough, in the traps and on the greens as well as through the fairways.

Q. Why is tuberculosis called the white plague? S. J.

A. The Public Health Service says that in the early days of treating tuberculosis, the patients were so often confined to their homes and not allowed fresh air that they soon became pale. It was due to their complexion that the phrase "white plague" became applied to the victims of tuberculosis.

Q. In early days were newspapers sent by mail? M. E. C.

A. In the days of the Colonial postal service, newspapers were not admitted to the mails. The post riders carried them, however, by private arrangements with the printers. Special riders delivered the papers at rates agreed upon.

Q. How many roads radiated from Rome at the time of her supremacy? F. H.

A. Rome had 29 roads leading from the city.

First Ward P-T Enjoys Old Dances

Accordion Music And Old-Time Box Lunches Provide Evening Of Fun

More than 100 people attended the old-fashioned party given by the First Ward P-T association at the school on Monday evening. Joseph L. Johns was the official caller and John T. Bushey was floor manager for the program of old-fashioned dances. An accordian furnished the music for the evening's dancing.

The women provided baskets of lunch which were distributed among the men, who had to find their partners by finding who had packed the basket.

The teachers of the school who had no partners were fortified for the occasion. They had provided a whole tubful of food for themselves and so they gathered round the tub for their lunch.

A program was given earlier in the evening. Mrs. E. Dutcher and Mrs. C. J. Waterson were the soloists. Dr. Carl Baker had charge of the community singing.

PARTIES

Mrs. John Deiner was surprised by a group of friends and relatives at her home on Fair-st on Sunday afternoon in honor of her fiftieth birthday anniversary. A 6 o'clock dinner was followed by a program of games and dancing.

Mrs. John Engel, Jr. will entertain members of the high school camp fire at her home at 686 Harris-st on Wednesday evening. The evening will be spent informally.

All the girl scouts in Appleton will be guests of troop 2 at a party at the congregational church on Wednesday evening. A program has been prepared by the hostess troop.

The You Go 146 club was entertained at two parties in Freedom last week. The first was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rolf on Wednesday evening. Dancing, music and cards were the amusements of the evening. The guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Peter DeBruin, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Schulz, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Appleton, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Appleton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Appleton, the Misses Marie Killian, Laura Fox, Marie Appleton, Helen Fox, Loraine DeBruin, Della Appleton, Josephine DeBruin, Marian Appleton, Vera Coffey and Edna Appleton and Francis Elbert, Nicholas Fox, Clifford Arnold, William Appleton, Chester Appleton, Sylvester DeBruin, William Coffey, Joseph DeBruin and Joseph Coffey.

When Mr. and Mrs. Peter DeBruin entertained the club on Friday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Murphy, the guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Appleton and sons, Orville and Robert and daughter, Mary, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Appleton and daughters, Della, Marion, Edna and Ruth and son, Joseph; Mr. and Mrs. Simon Schulz, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rolf and son, Leroy.

Miss Leone Bosman, teacher of Columbia school in Grand Chute, will entertain at a card party and box social in the school Monday evening, Feb. 12.

Miss Teresa Muggenthaler was surprised in honor of her birthday anniversary by a number of friends on Monday evening. The party took place at her home, 1253 Spencer-st. Games were played and prizes were won by the Misses Lillian Klahorst, Emma Peotter and Teresa Muggenthaler.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Appleton were surprised at their home in Freedom on Sunday afternoon. The occasion was Mrs. Appleton's seventy-first birthday anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lorenz of Black Creek entertained at a surprise party at their home on Friday evening in honor of the birthday anniversary of Alvin Lorenz. Games and dancing were the program of the evening. The guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Barth, George Barth, Emil Barth, William Barth, Clinton Brusewitz, Herman Wenzel, Leonard Mory, Harold Schmeichel, Ferdinand and Andrew Riese, Gordon and Edwin Rubelz, Edward Thibault, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Barth, John Brusewitz, Harvey Nelson, Lydia Barth, Carmen Mielke, Gladys Schmeichel, Meta Brusewitz, Miss Rubelz, Gertrude Rubelz, Lerena Riese, Dorothy Mory's, Le Moyne Mory and Verona Barth.

CARD PARTIES

St. Joseph Aid society will give a card party Thursday afternoon and evening at St. Joseph hall. Schafkopf and plumpack will be played in the afternoon and schafkopf, dice and euchre in the evening. This will be the last card party before Lent.

At the card party given by the young women of the Royal Neighbors at south Masonic hall on Monday evening, 32 tables were in play. Prizes at schafkopf went to J. Beaulieu, Louis Palm and Miss Fronia D. Markow; at dice to Miss Georgine Toonen and Miss Alma Krueger; at euchre to Mrs. Dora Hager; and at bridge to Mrs. William Nemacheck.

A card party will be given at 8:00 o'clock Saturday evening for members of the Eastern Star and Masons in north Masonic hall.

Harry Roland of Menasha was an Appleton visitor Monday.

S. Dickinson left for Spokane, Wash., Tuesday on a business trip.

Want Men To See What Club Does For City's Girls

The men are especially essential to the success of the demonstration of the work being done by the recreation department of Appleton Women's club which will take place at Elk hall on Tuesday, Feb. 13. Miss Neva Boyd, director of the Recreation Training school of Chicago will be the speaker of the evening and each class and club of the department will put on a part of the program.

Many men who are supporting boys' work in Appleton usually pay little attention to the work which is being done for girls. This is true, women of Appleton Women's club feel, because they know so little about what is being done. For this reason, the regular meeting of the club is open to everybody and all women are being urged to bring along as many men as they can coral.

The program will be short, but complete enough to give an idea of how much is being done and what is being done. The attention of many people has been called to physical education and recreation by the discussion over gymnasiums in the junior high schools. Miss Boyd will tell the how and why of recreation. She is the director of the school from which Miss Martha Chandler, recreational director of Appleton Women's club, is a graduate.

CLUB MEETINGS

The Rotary club held its weekly luncheon in the Venetian room at Conway hotel Tuesday noon. The speaker was E. H. Krug, manager of the Sealding Locks Hairpin company.

The Sunshine club will meet at 2:30 Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Irene Fuxton, 532 Rankin-st. The hostesses include Mrs. Warren Hinch-cliff, Mrs. Lillian Trentlage, Mrs. Virginia Abbey and Mrs. Stella Sharp.

The Tuesday club will meet with Mrs. W. O. Thiede, 778 10-st, at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. A. A. Wellengel will have charge of the program of modern composers.

NOMINATING BODY WILL BE ELECTED AT C. OF C. DINNER

Successors To Five Directors Will Be Named At Lincoln Meeting Monday

Election of a nominating committee will be one of the business matters to come before Appleton Chamber of Commerce at the monthly forum dinner in Conway hotel next Monday evening. This committee will suggest five directors to succeed Luther G. Grant, J. D. Steele, R. S. Powell, J. P. Frank and William C. Wing, whose terms expire. The election will occur during March.

Each member has been sent a letter calling attention to this item of business and a copy of the bylaws dealing with the elections is enclosed.

All are urged, in addition, to hear the address of Dr. Harris Franklin Rall, Evanston, on "Lincoln and Democracy." With Dr. Rall's ability already known here, it is believed many will want to hear his enthusiastic application of the principles of the great commoner to the community problems of today. Dr. Rall addressed the forum, the Rotary club, Lawrence college, and other groups here several weeks ago and there was a clamor for his return so more could listen to his talks.

Workshop To Present Plays Thursday Night

"The Sun" and "The Florist Shop" are the two plays which Appleton Women's club dramatic workshop will present at the clubhouse on Thursday evening. The public is invited to be present.

These plays will be presented to the patients at Riverside sanatorium soon. The plays were to be presented on Tuesday evening but the date was found impracticable. Rehearsals of all the plays including "Mrs. Pat and the Law" will take place on Tuesday evening. The latter will be given at the recreation department demonstration on Feb. 13.

HALL FILLED TO HEAR ARENS LECTURE-RECEL

Every seat in Peabody hall was filled on Monday evening when Prof. Ludolph Arens assisted by his piano students gave an interpretive lecture-recital on the program which the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra will present at Lawrence Memorial chapel on Wednesday evening. Even those who are not intensely interested in musical recital was a success, a pleasure to listen to and well worth while.

Bishop Weller Will Address All Saints Men

"Measurements of the True Man" will be the topic on which Bishop R. J. Weller of the Fond du Lac diocese of the Episcopal church will address the Men's club of All Saints church after the club dinner on Monday, Feb. 12. Bishop Weller is well known as one of the most powerful workers toward the unification of all portions of the Anglican church and Christianity at large. He is an able speaker and will draw a large attendance at the supper.

Where Is Your Money?

The daughter sold an old teapot to the junk dealer when her mother was absent from home. The teapot contained mother's savings of five years.

Johnny thought the ten dollar gold pieces, which he found tucked away in the bottom drawer, were pennies — and exchanged them for ice cream cones.

Their house burned down one night and in the fight for safety Farmer Jones and his family didn't have time to rescue the money, hidden for years in the mattress.

Such unexpected accidents nearly always happen to hidden money even when it escapes fire and theft. Why not protect yours by placing it in an interest bearing account at this bank? It's safe here and is working for you every day.

DISCOVERS FIRE IN TIME TO SAVE FARM RESIDENCE

Alfred Mass Was Leaving For Town When Home At Oneida Became Ignited

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Oneida—Alfred Mass almost lost his home by fire Thursday last week. When he was passing the house on the start of a trip to town he thought he could smell smoke. Going in to see what was the matter he found that the ceiling around the chimney was burning and hurriedly extinguished the blaze. If he had left a few minutes earlier, his house would have been burned. He lives alone.

Mrs. Roger Siles has taken her aged parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Metoxen to live with her in Beloit.

PHONE COMPANY ELECTS
Stockholders of Oneida Telephone Co. elected the following directors: G. L. Morgan, E. H. Dyer, P. D. Harris, M. D. Archibette and Emil Vercauteren. The directors then elected the following officers: G. L. Morgan, president and general manager; Emil Vercauteren, vice president; M. D. Archibette, secretary; P. D. Harris, treasurer.

Three carloads of livestock were shipped out of Oneida the last few days.

John Burk, who has been doing carpenter work in Milwaukee, has returned home.

HOLD SLEIGHRIDE
Mrs. N. Romanesko, teacher of district school, No. 1 took her school children for a sleighride Friday, visiting District 4 and District 3. She has 32 pupils.

The Rev. Father Pennington of St. Norbert college, took the seventh and eighth grade pupils and two sisters of St. Joseph school in De Pere for a sleighride Friday, visiting the Rev. A. E. Visser for dinner at St. Mary's school in the afternoon, returning in the evening. There were 30 children. Letters have been received by residents of Seymour in the investigation of alleged Oneida Indian claims to properties in the heart of Philadelphia and New York from bankers of Philadelphia and from the present secretary of state of New York. These persons disclaim any knowledge of the alleged claims.

Miss Viola Berth, who has been serving as primary teacher in District No. 4 left for her home in Kaukauna Saturday. The district voted to have only one teacher for the remainder of the term.

The Rev. Father Visser and two little children of J. W. Cornelius spent the weekend in New London in the interest of the new school at St. Mary parish.

FRENCH SPEAKS AT SEYMOUR CHURCH

Seymour—D. P. French, Appleton district superintendent of the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon league gave an address at the Methodist church Sunday morning.

The union missionary meeting of the Methodist and Congregational churches will be held at the home of the Rev. S. B. Welles Tuesday night. A cotillion prayer meeting will be held at the home of C. H. Benedict Wednesday night.

Oscar McBain is visiting in the southern part of the state.

Mrs. August Wichman returned from a Green Bay hospital Saturday where she was confined for several weeks following severe operations.

Mrs. Richard Able has been sick for several days.

Miss Lorraine Timmers and Miss Iva Tubbs of Green Bay spent the weekend with their parents here.

Adelbert Newman returned to Milwaukee Saturday after a week's vacation spent with his uncle, Herman Waite and family.

The cold wave Saturday and Sunday sent the mercury to 30 degrees below zero. Church attendance Sunday was small, and country church services were called off on account of the cold and bad roads.

Arthur McBain has returned from Milwaukee where he had been employed since the first of the year.

Lorene and Robert Lester are ill with mumps.

Harold Miracle who was laid up two weeks with quinsy, is sick with the mumps.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carter of Cicero are the parents of a son born Jan. 30.

NOTES OF FREEDOM

DEBATE TEAMS GET TRYOUT IN PUBLIC

Kansas Industrial Court Law Is Subject For Student
Discussion

Kaukauna—Resolved, that Congress should enact a federal law applying the essential features of the Kansas industrial court to the settlement of railroad labor disputes. That is the question which will be debated by the affirmative and negative teams of the high school at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the assembly room. A set of local men and women will be judges.

The first preliminary debating contest between Kaukauna, Brillion and Waldo high schools will be held Friday evening, Feb. 16 in the high school assembly room. The Waldo negative team will meet the local affirmative team here while the orange and black negative trio will argue its points with Brillion affirmatives at Brillion.

The teams consist of: Mollie Goldin, Harold Frank, Gordon Patton, John Rohan, affirmative; Karl Hansen, Elmer Ott, Elizabeth Schussman and Donald McDonald, negative.

Social Items

Kaukauna—John Gerharz was surprised by about 30 friends at his home, 116 Island st., Sunday evening in honor of his birthday anniversary. Cards were played and prizes were awarded after which the guests enjoyed dancing. Prizes at cards were won by Charles Lowery and Otto Minkiewicz. Mrs. Minkiewicz was presented with consolation prize.

The Miss-Tear-Us club held its regular meeting Sunday afternoon at the home of Miss Edith Meyer. Prizes at rummy were won by Miss Eva Grebe and Miss Lorraine Radford.

Regular business was transacted at the monthly meeting of the Senior Christian Endeavor society of Reformed church Monday in the church basement. Tickets were distributed for the organ recital to be given on Tuesday evening, Feb. 20 in the church by Frank A. Taber, Jr. of Appleton. Mr. Taber will be assisted by George Mecholson, bass. The recital will be one of the musical treats of the year and plans are being made to accommodate a large crowd. A social hour followed the business meeting. Games suggestive of the Valentine season were played and prizes were won by Misses Lillian Sager and Leona Wenzel and Roy Kuehl. A committee composed of Wilbert Forrester, Edwin Sager and Walter Knehl was appointed for entertainment at the next monthly meeting.

Stack Is Huge
A new metal smokestack is about to be erected at the branch plant of the Borden Condensed Milk company at Greenville, to replace one that has deteriorated. The two halves occupied the full length of a flat car. The stack is about four feet in diameter at the bottom.

BABY HURT WHEN AUTO IS DITCHED

Mrs. Otto Zerrenner And Children In Accident—School Has Fire

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Now London—What might have been a serious accident occurred Saturday when the auto of Otto Zerrenner, in which Mrs. Zerrenner was conveying her children to Appleton for their music lesson, skidded and went into the ditch. The baby, Carl, was out by the windshield and suffered the loss of a tooth. The other occupants were shaken up. The first report was that all were badly injured. This was not true, however.

An alarm called the fire department to the Lutheran school building Monday morning. The slight blaze on the roof was easily extinguished.

The bursting of a valve in the heating plant of the Congregational church Saturday evening left that edifice cold for Sunday. The morning service and Sunday school were held in the Odd Fellow hall. Repairs will be made at once so services may be resumed.

Sarah Jane and Caroline Caley, who were respectively six and four years of age last week, celebrated the event with a party Saturday afternoon.

Children With Matches Set Attic Ablaze

An attic, a group of playful children and a box of matches—this combination is still a source of alarm for parents and firefighters alike. The scene was repeated Monday afternoon at the home of Oscar Johnson, 91 Mason-st. A home and human life were imperiled when the matches with which the children were playing set fire to some paper and waste in the attic. The timely action of the occupants and the firemen prevented serious damage. The house itself was not ignited.

ing service and Sunday school were held in the Odd Fellow hall. Repairs will be made at once so services may be resumed.

DENOUNCES KLAN AS WORST ENEMY OF U. S. SOLIDITY

F. Ryan Duffy Makes Heated
Attack On Veiled Order
At Legion Initiation

Dramatically appealing to those who fought side by side in the trenches in defense of their country to rouse up and fight the insidious enemies which are trying to make the "united" in the United States meaningless, F. Ryan Duffy of Fond du Lac, commander of the Wisconsin department of the American Legion, denounced the Ku Klux Klan movement in the state in an address before the new Johnston post of the American Legion at its meeting in Elk last Monday evening.

The greatest menace to our country today is the invisible empire, the Ku Klux Klan," he said. "I have had men in Fond du Lac whom I suppose to be members of this mysterious order come and tell me to lay off in my denunciation. In every address I have made I have appealed to the former service men to use their influence to check the development of such an organization. Anything that eats at the vitals of the country as this does should not be permitted to exist."

INITIATE MEMBERS

Mr. Duffy's address followed the initiation of a class of new members into the order, and he devoted part of his remarks to these men, complimenting them on affiliating themselves with the legion and helping in its fight for adjusted compensation, hospitalization and patriotism. He explained the great importance which is attached to legion membership.

The veterans were told of two veterans' organizations that have been won over to the sales tax idea in their request to congress for a bonus. The legion has never countenanced the sales tax idea, he said, because such a measure never would pass. He characterized the winning over of the other veterans' organizations as an attempt of powerful business interests to break up the solidarity the legion has had back of its demands for adjusted compensation.

Soldiers fighting in your name where the enemy of their country was, said the state commander. But there is no war now, yet enemies who would break up this country are at work constantly. But they are not known outwardly. Describing the efforts Russia made to undermine the constitution of the United States, he then turned to the activities of the invisible empire. Their purpose is to make use of one race or of one religion hate one another, he said. By breaking up the solidarity of the nation they are playing right into the hands of those who want to see the nation overthrown.

Killing of Walt Daniels in Louisiana by the Klan was the example used to show how the veiled ranks do their work. Daniels was in the tank corps in the war, he said, and was decorated with the distinguished service cross for valor. Yet these men seized him because he tried to defend his aged father. Because he removed a mask and saw who one of the assailants was, he was put to death most cruelly, not being given a chance to face his accuser, nor have the traitor's privilege of dying by the bullet.

"The constitution gives a man the right to face his accuser," said the speaker, and he has his day in court before judge and jury. But the invisible empire takes the law into its own hands. Its members, without even consulting their own officers, become accusers, judge, jury and even executioner. That is why he is opposed to these activities.

"It is when men are behind masks where they all look alike and their identity is not possible that the crowd comes out, the hoodlum is revealed," said Mr. Duffy. "If we let them continue in our midst, it can mean only that counter organizations will be formed and there will be civil war in the end. We ought to use our influence so a snake like this in our midst will be crushed."

The speaker encouraged the legion to consider every proposal that might mean the end of all wars. Describing the gases available but not used in the last war and which would wipe out whole cities, large or small, he declared that the next conflagration would mean the suicide of the white races. Just as the courts settle local or state disputes within this nation, so a means can be found for settling disputes between nations, he said. Impressive rites were carried out in initiation of the new members. The ritual of the national department was used, with Commander H. J. Pettigrew presiding. A lighted emblem of the legion, suspended over the platform, played a prominent part in the exercise. Another initiation perhaps will occur at the next regular meeting for a number who were absent.

PLAN SOCIAL MEETING

The next voted to hold an extra meeting the third week in February, the date to be set by Commander Pettigrew. This will be solely for amusement and acquaintanceship.

Mr. Pettigrew and James H. Balliet, adjutant, were elected to represent the post at the state conference of commanders and adjutants in Milwaukee next Saturday and Sunday. This is the gathering Appleton entertained a year ago.

Members of legion posts at Kaukauna, Seymour, Darby and Birnamwood were present as guests. They conferred with local officers concerning a county legion council and are favorable to organization of one. Mr. Pettigrew explained that the county council would include the two delegates from each post, and that it would have a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer. Its main object would be to look after the interests of disabled veterans.

Weissgerber Believes Device
Now On Test Has Value
To Traffic

Comments of motorists are desired by the street department on the practicability of the automatic danger signal that is being tried out at the corner of Richmond-st and College-ave, and suggestions are asked as to other danger spots where similar precaution signs might be used.

In inspecting the signal on an evening last week, O. F. Weissgerber, city street commissioner, drove up Locust-st from College-ave, turned east on Franklin-st, and as soon as he turned back south on Richmond-st he noticed the red glow of the light at College-ave, a distance of 825 feet. After he drove a block nearer, he observed that the light was a brilliant red.

The automatic signal light is placed at the extremity of Richmond-st on College-ave where, if the light should be installed permanently, it would serve as a warning that the street ends there and that a railroad crossing is nearby. A feature of the red danger light is that it eliminates the expense of operation. A red plate of glass fused with a plate of ordinary glass serves as a reflector of the rays of automobile headlights. A wire guard over the glass protects it against damage.

Mr. Weissgerber believes the lights might be used effectively at Lake-st hill, Lake-st draw bridge, Lemnawah-st and Second-ave, and other traffic traps in the city.

MOTHER! MOVE CHILD'S BOWELS

"California Fig Syrup" is Child's Best Laxative

Even if cross, feverish, listless, constipated or full of colic, children love the "fruit" taste of "California Fig Syrup." A teaspoonful never fails to clean the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the souring food and nasty bile out of the stomach and bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup. adv.

Many Acres Of Parks Await Development Into Spots Of Beauty

City Now Has 105 Acres Of Recreational Area—Newest
Parks Untouched Under
Annual Appropriation Of $4,000

The old forbidding signs, "Private Property, Keep Off," are becoming less and less visible in Appleton, as the city is becoming aroused to the need of more parks and is gradually providing its pent up and nerve racked population with more breathing and recreational areas.

Appleton has learned rather late in the day the lesson of other cities, that much of the best available property, such as on lake and river fronts, is lost to the city for park purposes because that frontage is occupied by railroad right-of-way. The city has, however, taken advantage of some of its park assets in the form of ravines.

More than 100 acres of park have been rescued, some of it river frontage. Most of the city's park system is still undeveloped, awaiting the day when money will be available to transform it into wonderful beauty spots such as are the pride of other cities.

PARKS NOT FAMILIAR

Because this park system is not yet completed, many residents of the city are known to be entirely ignorant of the number of Appleton parks and their location. The stranger frequently has the opportunity of seeing only one park, and that is the city park.

There is in Appleton practically 105 acres of park area scattered about the city. The First, Third and Sixth wards are most generously supplied, while there are no parks in the Fourth and Fifth wards.

The largest of its parks is Pierce park located at Second and Mason-sts, bought a few years ago for $28,000. This park contains about 30 acres of land and has a partial river frontage.

It is close to Alicia park, the city tourist campsite, which was donated to Appleton by Alex Reid. It contains 14 acres of land.

Both parks are considered by park experts to occupy strategic positions in that the two might some day be connected by purchasing the property between them. This has often been suggested by Professor Leonard S. Smith of Madison, whom the city has

ALL LEGISLATIVE BILLS FILED HERE

Copies Of All Measures Available For Public At Chamber Of Commerce

Every bill or resolution that is introduced either in the assembly or senate at the present legislative session in Madison is available to the people of Appleton for reference at the chamber of commerce office.

Copies of all measures are being received as released at the state capital and these are being filed in numerical order. The chamber is doing this for the double purpose of keeping a check on all legislation introduced, and to have the bill in its office as a handy reference for any purpose.

It is evident that new laws are being proposed at a rapid rate. The file already contains 61 senate bills, 115 from the assembly, and about 20 resolutions each from the senate and assembly. Anybody in Appleton, whether a member of the chamber or not, is privileged to use the files.

printed for a caretaker in Alicia park. That work is done by George Merkel, deputy health officer, in consideration of free rent of the caretaker's house.

Parks formerly were under the supervision of a park board. Last year they were supervised by a committee of the council, but now are under the supervision of the board of public works to comply with the state law which places parks under the supervision of either a park commission or the board of public works.

A part of the general city planning scheme not yet adopted by the planning commission or the council calls for the further improvement of Appleton parks under the direction of a competent landscape architect to gather with the provision of a complete equipment of playground apparatus, when money for that purpose is available.

And she was right, for when she came to the upper bars and cupping her hands to her scarlet mouth sent out the double whistle that was between them only, it was more than a horse who raised his splendid head—alert enough now—lifted his flowing tail a trifle, arched his high neck and galloped away across the fields toward her—it was a friend.

Nay, more—it was a lover.

There was the smell of her hair with long inhalations, as if he drew the beloved scent of her into his lungs, who rested his great muzzle on her shoulder, rubbed his cheek on hers—red satin on tawny velvet—who nibbled her hands with his soft lips and searched her garments for tidbits.

When Redstar swept out from the wide ranch yard and sailed away down across the levels with Val in the saddle, her father sometimes stood and watched with such a look of pride as a king might wear beholding his domain from the mountain tops.

And Val, loose in the saddle as an Indian, shot through the soft blue atmosphere like a bolt, her dark eyes half closed, her lips apart, a smile dimpling in her cheeks, drunk to the heart on the glorious speed, the keen singing of the wind in her ears, the humming thunder of Redstar's shining hoofs.

Redstar himself was no less drunk with his own perfection. He had run always—always, since those dim days which he had nearly forgotten—and the open sage was to him an amphitheater. There was nothing in all the blue distance to stop him.

There was nothing in the land to catch him—he had never been. He had run with Redcloud, and with the slim young racers, Firebrand and The Flame, and with Lightning, but always he had run away from them. Dawnlight had screamed and fought her bit, and raged like a fury because she felt behind, had stopped and plunged and acted like a maniac, and John Hannon had never let her run again.

Only Lightning, of all the speedy crew, had hung on Redstar's flank for any length of time, and the master had looked at him with new interest.

"There's something 'ordinary' in this Lightning horse, Tom," he had said. "For th' Redstar's a high gauge to judge by—a damn high gauge!"

On that soft warm day when Lolo Sanchez carried her gold down through the gaping street of Santa Leandra and did not see the gazers for her dreaming, Val Hannon drifted down across the bunchgrass levels on the great red king and smiled in the joy of freedom, the splendor of her youth and the glory of the open spaces.

Presently they swung far and away toward the north and west, to skirt the foot of the Mesa Grande that lifted its fat top high above the surrounding levels, to find the narrow trail that went up its south side in steep and dangerous slants, and to climb to its high tableland where the ancient Indian huts stood, hollow and deserted, whipped by the winds and eaten by their sands.

These silent places held a lure for Val Hannon, had always drawn her from the time when, a little child, her father had first brought her here to scan the world below.

Val sat straight in her saddle, her hands folded on the pommel. And as they rested so in the hush of the eternal silence alone on the mesa with its ghosts of a vanished people, something moved on the plain below, far off to the west, and caught their searching gaze.

A band of horsemen rode there, swiftly, sweeping out of the north where lay the town of Santa Leandra, and one shot out ahead, a leader.

The girl shaded her eyes with her hand and watched this rider and his horse. A red horse it was—a great red horse whose mane lifted above him like a cloud, whose beautiful body lay stretched along the earth in skimming flight, whose whole make and seeming were oddly familiar.

For a long moment she watched, while her eyes grew round with wonder and her lips fell apart. Then she dropped her hand and laid it on Redstar's neck as if she made sure of his living presence.

"Sweetheart," said she at last, incredulously, "if you weren't here beneath me I'd swear you ran yonder, as sure as death!"

And far off there where he rode like the wind itself toward the mystery of the all-engulfing Border, Valantrie rose in his stirrups and scanned the solitary horse and rider, standing like a statue high on the mesa's edge.

He was too far away to see the wonderful beauty of the red king racing him, or to know his rider for a woman. But with his characteristic gaiety he stood up for a second and sweeping the broad hat from his head, waved it in circles.

And Val Hannon, answering the stranger's signal, raised a hand above her head.

CHAPTER IV

The Cross in the Wilderness

The summer drenched upon the land. The winds had died this day and the brazen sun was monarch. Where the Little Antelope trickled sluggishly between its low banks, to nurse the straggling growth of trees that lined it, the heat was somewhat tempered. Cottonwoods grew here tall and slim, and many wasateles trees to spread their lacy shadow, and there were desert flowers planted in stonewalled beds among the sand, while the sword-like spikes of the maguay plant reached out to catch the unwary. This was a desert garden, rugged, grassless, injured to heat and drought, yet pleasant to the eye and mind as many a more favored spot was not. To the west of the garden and beyond the trees, standing out against the sun and the desert winds like a speared and shielded warrior, the long black walls of the Mission took the light on their pale expanses in a way to be soon for many miles across the plains.

Jeons, waits on the changing tides of fortune, refugees from the turbulent land across the Border, those broken and dispossessed by the warring factions that destroyed their own and got nowhere, the sick in mind and soul and body—these came to the doors of Refugio and none was turned away.

For at those doors stood Father Hilaire, who for forty years had watched the stretching plains. He had seen some pitiful things, and more that were tragic, and some that were bright with faith and courage and everlasting fidelity, such as John Hannon's love for his blind wife—and he was gentle with understanding.

But those who came to the Mission must work, for Father Hilaire was poor in worldly goods and the scant fare that was so free on the long board in the great bare living-room behind the church must be taken from the soil with unceasing labor.

Frijoles grew on the level stretches across the stream and a few bands of cattle ran on the open range, while sturdy grapes purpled on the wall that clasped the garden. Brown bread and milk and simple home-made wine, and the frioles always, these waited the corner at the Mission steps, be it dawn or dusk or in the dead of night. But sometimes the slices of the dark bread were thin, the tea strongly flavored with sage, for the gold came scarcely to the padre's coffers in these days.

The sun went down toward the west and the long blue shadows started out across the level floor from the lone shafts of stone and the tablelands of the mesas, and the little wind began to whisper from the south, while the wonderful colors came sifting through the light.

These colors had been to Father Hilaire one of the priceless possessions of his life, a gift of God in all truth, a wonderful healing and inspiration.

Never was the day so dark, the future so uncertain, but that his burdened heart found peace and hope in their beholding.

Today, as they flushed the high vault above the garden, Father Hilaire shut his beloved books and rose to greet them.

In that instant there came the sound of the long roll of a running horse upon the distant plain.

He hurried to the opening in the high wall where the great gates turned back upon it and looked eagerly out, for a moment a jockey of concentration drew in between his brows, then smoothed away as the charming smile came upon his features.

"Ah!" he said aloud, delightedly, "Valantrie!"

It could be no other.

There was not in the land another

A PAGE OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

RECIPES

This One Says
Heat Units Is
Basis Of Food

BY MARIAN HALE
Shrink your stomach!
That's every woman's dream. Lulu Hunt Peters, whose book, "Diet and Health With Key to Calories," has made thousands of women audit their meals as carefully as an accountant audits his books.

"An over-weight person's stomach," she says, "is distended because of overeating for the system's needs."
"After a meal the stomach never is happy unless it touches the meal on all sides. To count it, when reducing, one must enable it to cuddle a decreased volume of food. Of course, it must be shrunk to make this possible."

HOW TO SHRINK
"To shrink the stomach, go on a liquid diet for at least three days. Liquids don't stay in it long and it contracts."

"Liquids can be consumed so that the total intake is not more than six or eight hundred calories. These low calorie days not only shrink the stomach, but also, because they have not furnished enough calories to supply the body's energy needs, the excess fat cells are called on to make up the deficit."

To reduce intelligently, Dr. Peters advises every woman to learn the caloric or energy value of foods.

Reducing, she maintains, does not mean that one must give up all the food one likes.

DON'T OVERDO MATTERS
"It is undesirable," she explains, "to cut out all fats, starches and sugars as is advised so often, because this may bring on a state of acidosis, with rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness in its wake."

"The reducing person should have from 250 to 350 calories of protein to supply the body's repair needs. She needs plenty of leaf vegetables and fruits to supply vitamins and essential salts. The balance of the calories can be chosen from the foods she likes."

Nevertheless, it's well to remember this:
One piece of pie represents from 250 to 500 calories; one chocolate cream, 100; one ice cream soda, from 500 to 800.

Adventures Of
The Twins

Fog Delays Twins

The Green Wizard knocked three times on the big chimney where the Sweep lived, and the Sweep stuck out his head at once.

"How, now?" he cried. "What can I do for you, good sir?"

"I'll have a bucket of ashes and a can of soot, if you please," said the Green Wizard. "Nancy and Nick are stuck in a ditch beside the road and can't get out."

"Ay, you shall have it, and soon," said the Sweep, and disappeared instantly.

He returned in no time at all and handed the Green Wizard the ashes and the soot.

Back went the Wizard over the tree-tops to the place where the Twins were waiting and he sprinkled the ashes and soot right in front of the wheels of the magic car.

"Now then," said he, "turn the knob on the whirling and say your charm, my dears."

So Nancy said:
"Magic auto, hurry on,
There's no more mud, so please begone."

Instantly the little car chug-chugged out of the gutter and rattled away down the road toward Fairyland like a young pony with his head turned toward the stable when he knows it's meal time.

In about 15 minutes, without a doubt, they would have arrived at the Fairy Queen's Palace and all would have been well but something happened.

A dense fog began to settle over everything. It was so thick and smoky that the Twins couldn't see through the windshield.

Nick turned the knob on the whirling again and the magic automobile stopped.

"We might take the wrong road," he said, "so we'd better stay here."

NEW ENGLAND BROWN BREAD

By Bortha E. Shapleigh

2 cups graham flour

1 cup corn meal

1 1/2 teaspoons salt

2 teaspoons soda

1/2 cup molasses

2 cups sour milk

Sift together flour, meal, salt and soda. Add molasses and sour milk and when mixed beat thoroughly two minutes. Turn into a greased mold and steam three to five hours.

Rye flour may be substituted for one cup of the graham flour.

Water (lukewarm) may be used in place of sour milk. If this is done and one-half teaspoons soda in place of two, as above.

If a very dark brown bread is desired steam eight or 10 hours. This will make three loaves if steamed in one-pound baking powder tins.

If raisins are desired add one cup to the recipe given and use a little less molasses.

NEW STYLES FOR MEN WILL SET
HOT PACE FOR WOMEN

BY MARIAN HALE

Black derbies with pink feathers! Brown ones with lavender! That's the International Clothing Designer's recommendation for men's spring millinery.

Evidently the designers have taken seriously some of the slams at the monotony of masculine attire.

They're trying to start something. To be sure, no New York tailor I could find was willing to go quite so far as to sanction the International Designer's extreme ideas in favor of

IT CONCERNS WOMEN.

Now and again an authority on women's fashions arises to remark that it makes quite a bit of difference to these style devotees what men's clothes are like.

For her escort ought, in his attire, to set off a woman's appearance—to serve as a foil for her—to furnish the right sort of a contrast. No woman, the best judges say, "can appear at her best on the arm of a man whose clothes don't look right."

It seems now as if men were going in for decorative sartorial effects. Will this drive woman to important modifications in her own fashions?

The decorative, but I did uncover a little information concerning spring styles which indicates that men, in their garb, are going to be much more glowing and colorful this year than they were last season.

GOING IN FOR CONTRAST

In the first place, it is man's ideal no longer to be a symphony in just one tone.

With his blue business suit, he wears now a mauve shirt perhaps, and a tie the color of a ripe Damsen plum. Ties, in fact, have gone Bolshevik. There's not the slightest regard among them for law or order. No stripe is too wide, no spot too large for the up-to-date necktie.

Colored shirts, and collars to match, have put an end to the white shirt's vogue, almost completely. In London, where men's styles start, it's said white shirts and collars seldom are seen in the daytime, except with morning coats, as the English call the cutaway.

Last year London's Beau Brummels were mad about yellow. This year they swear by mauve.

PLENTY OF COLOR

The delicate pink, soft blue and mysterious lavender fabrics that are being converted into men's shirts are going to cause pangs of jealousy to many a woman.

The very snappy dresser who doesn't mind attracting a second glance, frequently wears a striped shirt, with a collar in solid color to match the stripe.

Men are stepping out—there's no denying it.

The single-breasted coat, with the single-breasted vest—wastcoat as classy people call it—leads in sack suits.

There's no longer any vent at the back of the coat, or cute little flaps on the pockets.

CUFF COMING BACK

But the cuff is coming back into its own at the bottom of the trousers. Two buttons are supposed to be enough for the smart sack coats, though conventional tailors who have held out for four during ages past say they see no reason for reducing the number.

Trousers are getting wider. The correctly clad man wears spats, but no brogues. Elaborate stitching and perforations have disappeared from shoes. Indeed, if there's anything in signs, his shoes will be about man's only conservative article of attire during the coming season.

HOW TO KEEP A CLEAR SKIN

The pores of our bodies have little sacs at their base in which is natural oil.

This oil feeds our skin and the amount of the oil gauges the amount of our flesh.

These pores not only feed our skin, but they also throw off our bodily impurities.

The pores of the face, being exposed to the elements without protection, get much more usage than those of the rest of the body.

So the pores of the face become clogged with dirt very quickly and, unless these pores are properly cleaned, the dirt obstructs their action, causing a bad complexion.

To correct this condition, one should use a mud pack, to stimulate the circulation of the blood, which in turn forces out the excess oils; and also to absorb any oil that is on the surface.

Then, too, one should see that the pores are never wide open in the daytime, by using an astringent to close them before exposure to the wind and sun.

One must regulate her diet if her skin is extremely oily and eliminate foods that make oil.

Salads should be taken without dressing of oil; rather, use vinegar. Sweets should be avoided, but plenty of fruits that are acid can be had, unless one has trouble with acid stomach.

Bathe frequently. Do not use a heavy face powder, and never use a liquid powder, but instead, a medium powder. And be sure to protect your skin from powdering by using an astringent lotion.

FRENCH CONSIDER LAWS TO PENALIZE CHILDLESS

An attempt to correct the tendency of the lowering French birthrate is being made in legislation which is before the parliament of France. The drastic suggestion in the bill is that the state would seize nine-tenths of all property left behind by any man dying at an age greater than 23 and not leaving behind at least one child.

It is provided that the property thus taken by the state is to be sold and the money devoted to helping large families. All needy families with more than three children, it is proposed, shall be eligible to benefits from the fund.

This Will Give You A Tip On Screen Pictures

BY JAMES W. DEAN

New York—Say "By Lantern Light," "Jenkins and the Mutt" and "Moon Blind," one real wilderness tale photographed by Robert Bruce. The most artistic things I ever saw on the screen.

Saw Louis Mann and George Sidney in "Give and Take," a stage farce based on the conflict between capital and labor. Thought Sidney very funny. Would make a good movie character, like the late John Bunny.

Saw Lloyd Hamilton in "No Luck," best screen comedy released in many months. Saw Nazimova (on screen) in "Dagmar." She wore livid clothes. Her acting was lurid. I have seen better acting than that of Nazimova and her husband, Charles Bryant, in ten-twenty-three theaters.

Saw Lige Conley, Violet Oliver and Peggy O'Neil in "Casey Jones, Jr.," a movie in which a lot of fun is had on a jerk-water railroad.

Saw Laurette Taylor in the movie version of "Peg of My Heart." She reminded me of both Mary Pickford and Mabel Normand. In her first film she displays more screen technique than many players who have been before the camera for years.

Saw Alan Dwan directing Bebe Daniels and David Powell in "Glimpses of the Moon." He photographed one small scene five times before he was satisfied with it.

Saw Guy Bates Post on the screen in "Omar, the Tent Maker." I can't agree with the other critics that he is an accomplished screen actor. He's not flexible, flaccid enough.

Saw George Melford directing Paul McAllister and Nita Naldi in "You Can't Fool Your Wife." Nita seems to have the most brilliant personality in the movies. She is as conspicuous in the studio as a flare in a dark mine.

Saw Robert Lieber, president, and Dick Rowland, general manager of First National. They were putting each other on the back for having signed up Frank Borzage, the director who made "Humoresque."

Borzage looks more like a calligraphic instructor than a director. Saw Dorothy Dalton, Jose Ruben and Robert Ellis in "Dark Secrets," which film seemed to have been cut out for 14-year-old intelligences.

Saw the Moscow Art Theater players again. This time in "The Cherry Orchard." Stanislawsky, the great director, is just as great an actor.

Saw "Extra," stage story of newspaper life, in which a bar is disclosed in the editorial rooms. Newspaper life was never like that in my experience.

Saw "Lady But-terfly." The jokes are dingy, but the girls are brilliant.

Violet Oliver's picture became familiar to many thousands through its use in advertising five-cent packages of raisins. Like the others who were first brought to prominence by artists, she has entered the movies. Her first appearance is in "Casey Jones, Jr.," a two-reel comedy. In that, Lige Conley takes numerous "umbles. In one instance he is knocked off an engine, yet is uninjured. How do they do it?

FLOWER BRIMS

Small flowers are used effectively on the new spring hats. Small brims, composed entirely of flowers are used with crowns of coarse straw. Usually they are in one color, but shade from light to dark tones.

THREE-PIECE SUIT

A three-piece jersey suit for spring comes in a warm shade of tan and is trimmed with bands of crepe de chine of the same color and with varn embroidery in tan. It has a sleeveless cape that is quite short, reaching only to the waistline and hanging very full.

TODAY I AM REAL WELL

So Writes Woman After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Jamestown, N.Y.—"I was nervous, easily excited and discouraged and had no ambition. Part of the time I was not able to sit up as I suffered with pains in my back and with weakness. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, both the liquid and tablet forms, and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash for inflammation. Today I am real well and run a rooming house and do the work. I recommend your medicine to every woman who complains, and you may use my letter to help any one else. I am passing through the Change of Life now and I keep the Vegetable Compound in the house, ready to take when I feel the need of it."—Mrs. ALICE D. DAVIS, 203 W. Second St., Jamestown, N.Y.

Often some slight derangement may cause a general upset condition of the whole system, indicated by such symptoms as nervousness, backache, lack of ambition and general weakness. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will be found a splendid medicine for such troubles. In many cases it has removed the cause of the trouble.

DEEP WATERS

Chapter 24 — John and Anita Reconciled

By Zoe Beckley

When Barrett and his daughter landed in Holland, Myra was already so. Beside me was a perfectly comfortable divan. The fault had been in me. I had been too long without changing my position.

"Anita, I have been asleep with my eyes open for years. When I found myself liked, I thought it was your fault. It was mine. My dear, we need awakening and—readjustment."

"We each have demanded of the other the state of mind of early courtship. Impossible and—undesirable. Courtship is a dead-level. Marriage is a climb, with development and achievement all along the way."

"We have had a dozen years and more of happiness, only a few years of irritation. Which means the most," tells the truer story? I say, as I see it now, that the few years are merely an episode, that the dozen years are what count.

"If you don't think so, you shall have your way. If you agree with me—and I pray you will—drop these hideous divorce proceedings, pack our bag and Junior's, grab the Mauretania by the tail and come to your daughter and your husband—John."

Eleven days later came a cable. "Coming, dears. Anita and Junior." (THE END.)

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a fairly long time.

It's a truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and breaks the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract known the world over for its healing effect on membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

SULPHUR CLEARS A PIMPLY SKIN

Apply Sulphur and When Your Skin Breaks Out

Any breaking out of the skin on face, neck, arms or body is overcome quickest by applying Menthol Sulphur. The pimples seem to dry right up and away, declares a noted skin specialist.

Nothing has ever been found to take the place of sulphur as a pimple remover. It is harmless and inexpensive. Just ask any druggist for a small jar of Menthol Sulphur and use it like cold cream.

A Free Booklet on Floors and Floor Coverings

Proper floor coverings are highly important from every point of view.

The floor covering you choose must be attractive, to look at as well as made of good materials.

The floor itself, being a permanent part of the house, should be of durable materials, well laid and suitable to the purpose for which each particular room is used.

Experts of the Federal Government have made a thorough study of the subject of floors and coverings. The results of their scientific investigations are embodied in a non-technical booklet of great value to home builders and housekeepers.

This is a free Government publication. Our Washington Information Bureau will secure a copy for any reader who fills out and mails the coupon below, enclosing two cents in stamps for return postage. Write your name and address clearly.

Frederic J. Haskin, Director, The Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.

I enclose herewith two cents in stamps for return postage on a free copy of the booklet "Floors and Floor Coverings."

Angry, I looked to see what irked me. When she had hovered, a frail baby almost, between life and death for weeks. He thought of the woman who had watched beside him, taking his place when he slept, refusing to rest herself, more steadfast in courage than he, more enduring.

And of how, when the terrific suspense was over, she had gone on bravely toiling and saving to meet the bills, doing her own work, patching, mending, having nothing herself but the love she gave her family.

Barrett cabled on landing: "Taking holiday trip with Alice." In leisurely fashion he and his daughter made their way to the south of France and for weeks lazed in the sun-and-flower land. Alice lost her pallor, warmed and glowed and laughed and adoringly dragged her Dad on wonder trips through ancient, storied towns untouched by modern ways.

They revealed in the gorgeous beauty of the Riviera—Nice—Monaco, Cannes and the little villages linked by the most wonderful trolley-line in the world. They even ventured a bit of play in the guided gaming-rooms of Monte Carlo and spent their winnings hilariously dining and dancing together at Ciro's.

One day Barrett wrote his wife: "Last night I fell asleep reading. When I woke Alice had gone to bed. I was stiff and sore and irritable."

With an average of 216 pins a game for nine straight games, W. Anderson, Kenosha, established a new record for all events in Wisconsin Elks Bowling tournaments when he rolled 1,944 on the Elks alleys Monday afternoon. Anderson's team, the First National Bank of Kenosha, rolled into first place with a score of 2,904, and Anderson, rolling with C. Zievers of Kenosha, went into first place in the doubles with a score of 1,267, beating last year's highest mark of 1,223 made by a Racine duo.

Anderson was rolling in wonderful form in the five-man and the doubles events but he couldn't keep up the terrific pace in the singles. His total for three games in the five-man events was 668, in the doubles he hit the pins for 635 and in the singles his total was 582. His best single game was 246 rolled in the doubles. In the doubles he rolled 237, 246 and 222, and in the singles he hit the pins for 160, 177 and 245.

The First National's high score was the best on the Elks alleys since the Rainbow Gardens hit 3,001 for the state championship a year ago.

The Herman Brothers team of Kenosha went into fourth place when it rolled a score of 2,675 in the five-man event. Secretary Brown's Elks of Milwaukee were topped to second place by the Kenosha banking team. Here are the banker's scores:

C. Zievers 167 210 179 554
 C. Hennemann 188 191 154 533
 J. Livingston 170 181 164 515
 W. Anderson 234 221 212 668
 J. Peterson 203 214 215 634

Totals 962 1017 925 2904

Four teams, including the Shotton Skunks, were scheduled to roll Monday night but none appeared on the alleys. The Hotel Wisconsin of Milwaukee and the Badger Printing squad of Appleton are scheduled for games tonight. Last year the Hotel Wisconsin finished in the money and it is said they are determined to climb a peg or two this year.

With so many excellent teams entered it will not be surprising if many new records are made before the tournament ends. Anderson's mark, however, is going to give the crowd something to shoot at. His mark is far better than the best made in the state tournament at Green Bay.

Following are the other games bowled Monday afternoon and night:

FIVE MAN EVENTS
 Herman Brothers, Kenosha, 2,675.
 Corbett, 513; McCarron, 488; Moore, 603; Thomas, 504 and Hemlink, 507.

KENOSHA DOUBLES
 Zievers-Anderson, 1,267; Moore-Herman, 1,105; Livingston-Peterson 1,149; Corbett-Thomey, 895; McCarron-Hemlink, 1,127.

KENOSHA SINGLES
 Livingston, 524; Anderson, 582; Peterson, 507; Corbett, 573; Thomas, 538; McCarron, 556; Hemlink, 484; Zievers, 567; Moore, 504; Herman, 515.

Barnyard Golf
 Has Boy Wonder Who Seeks Title

St. Petersburg, Fla. — America's youngest horseshoe pitcher, Harold Falor, the 15-year-old wizard of Akron, O., is the most recent entry in the fifth annual midwinter national "barnyard golf" tournament to be held here during the week of Feb. 12.

The boy marvel finished high in the midsummer meet, held in Des Moines last August, topping several stars of national prominence, including C. C. Davis, who won leading honors here last February.

Young Falor is after the national title this winter and hopes to wrest the championship crown now being worn by Frank Linder of New London, Ia. The boy is working out daily at Orlando, Fla., where his father has opened a training camp for the knickerbocker athlete.

In a recent exhibition match, Falor trounced Davis, the former champion 60 to 42, both men totaling 33 rangers in the nip-and-tuck exhibition.

Falor has a lazy revolving shoe that opens perfectly at the iron up-right sliding on a roller. He wears a canvas glove on his pitching hand and this cuts the turn of his horse shoe down to a one-and-quarter revolution.

CARROLL IS SURE TO GIVE LAWRENCE STIFF FIGHT HERE

Waukesha Team Battles Local Collegians in Armory Thursday Night

Lawrence college basketball team, strengthened by the return of Kotol to the fold, will face a formidable foe in Armory G Thursday night when it tackles Carroll college of Waukesha. Carroll, heretofore regarded as the weak sister of the Little Five has a powerful aggregation this year. It showed its great strength when it defeated Tappan last week and by its win over Milwaukee Normal school.

Lawrence also has been showing better form the last week. It defeated Milton without any difficulty and gave Beloit a fierce struggle on Beloit's home floor. Thursday night's game will be worthwhile watching.

Kotal Basing and Jacobson are working together like the wheels of a clock. The trio is getting along in great shape and will be a hard combination to beat. Puchner, Collins, Cook, Sund, Zussman and Hurlbut give Coach H. D. McChesney a big squad of excellent basketball players to pick a strong team from and he expects to present the classiest lineup of the year when the whistle blows Thursday evening.

BASEBALL MEETING HERE WEDNESDAY

According to all indications the meeting scheduled for Wednesday night in the Conway hotel between the managers of the Wisconsin State League and Wisconsin Valley Baseball League will be held as planned.

No word has been received by Manager Harry Stelzer of the Appleton club from any of the other cities whose differences are blocking peace between the two wheels which they will be present but it is understood that the delegates will be on hand with as was planned at the preliminary week ago.

Should the Conway hotel settle into an eight club league will be organized from the following cities: Appleton, Neenah-Menasha, Green Bay, Manitowish, Sheboygan, Oshkosh, Kaukauna, Fond du Lac, Milwaukee and Menominee.

KAUKAUNA ORIOLES WANT GAMES WITH BASKETEERS

The Orioles, a basketball team, averaging 115 to 125 points, want games with teams of the same weight. Caging pilots are asked to address Manager Joseph N. Guilfoyle, 258 Wisconsin-ave., Kaukauna.

SPORT VIEWS AND NEWS

A remarkable exploit on the bowl alley, as recorded in another column on this page, a gentleman who answers to the name of Anderson and receives his mail at Kenosha, leaped into the Elks hall of fame when he dropped 1,944 pins in the all events, averaging 216 pins a game for five games. This Mr. Anderson surely had the pins well trained. His exhibition was remarkable for its consistency, rolling six straight games of well over 200 pins each. His mark will give the other bowlers something to shoot at. Anderson's score is far ahead of the all events mark of the state tourney in Green Bay.

Fox river valley and Wisconsin State league baseball moguls are to meet here Wednesday night in a second attempt to settle their differences and get started on plans for the 1923 season. A matter of money is the obstacle to harmony in baseball circles. Wednesday night's meeting probably will determine the character of baseball in this vicinity the coming season.

Jack Zwick, whose name was on the tongue of most every fight follower in this part of the state until a certain unfortunate occurrence, in Fond du Lac a few weeks ago, is putting in some hard work of training to prepare for a pretty heavy campaign according to reports. Jack has a wicked punch but is rather shy on cleanness and it is said efforts are being concentrated on teaching the youth the fine points of the game so he will be a better match for the top notchers.

What politics can do to sports, if it is allowed to keep in, is illustrated by the boxing situation in New York. The game is on its last legs in Gotham because crooks and politicians and promoters have made it a scandal and a disgrace. Chicago is begging for a state law which will permit and regulate boxing. It should take a lesson from New York's experience if it wants the game to prosper. It should provide jail sentences for any politician who meddles in the sport.

Wisconsin's basketball team still is tied with Iowa for the conference leadership but it has a hard row to hoe this week. It meets Purdue and Michigan on enemy floors. If it can win the two, formidable contests it will be in a pretty good position for the remainder of the season.

Sisler Slated As Next Boss Of St. Louis Browns

St. Louis, Mo. — Just at present Manager Leo Fohl is riding on the crest of popularity. The placid leader of the St. Louis Browns made a fine showing last season. With a faltering pitching staff, he landed the Browns in second place—just one game away from the league leaders.

No manager in the world could have done more with the Browns than Fohl accomplished in 1922. With an ordinary pitching staff, inclined at times to be very erratic, an infield that lacked stability at third, and forced to be without the services of his big star, Sisler, when he was not needed, the Browns were in the fight until the very last day.

Shortly after the close of the season it was rumored that Sisler might succeed Fohl. Such rumors were soon set to rest by the quick announcement from headquarters that Fohl would again be in charge.

However, it seems certain that when Fohl gives way to a successor at St. Louis, Sisler will be the man. It is a well-known fact that he was offered the management of the club when Fohl took charge.

"I have no desire to manage a club at this time," was Sisler's response. "The worries of the job would certainly affect my play. I feel that I can do the most service to the club at this time as a mere player."

GEORGE SISLER

That, for the time, settled the Sisler managerial boom, but put at rest the I can do the most service to the club at this time as a mere player.

BOXERS TO SHOW TRAINING WARES

Johnston Receives Challenges To Meet Winner Of Wolpin-Duffy Go

Fistic fans will get their first glimpse Tuesday night of Billie Wolpin, who meets Jack Duffy in the windup of the boxing show here on Feb. 15. "Open house" will be held in Armory G. for an hour or so. Wolpin, who is training with Jack Zwick of Kaukauna, as well as some of the boys scheduled to appear in the program will do their regular training stunts.

Two challenges already have been received by Promoter Elmer Johnston to meet the winner of the Wolpin-Duffy go. One was from Mike Collins of Minneapolis, in behalf of Bill Emke, the other challenge was from Mike Gibbons, also of Minneapolis, in behalf of Johnny Tillman, who recently beat Nikol in Milwaukee.

JANESVILLE GETS 1924 PIN TOURNEY

Little Change In Green Bay Scores—Appleton Men Due To Bowl Today

By Associated Press
 Green Bay—Janesville was awarded the 1924 Wisconsin state bowling tournament at a meeting of the Wisconsin State Bowling association here Monday night. Plans were also discussed at the meeting of the bowling enthusiasts to endeavor to break this year's record breaking entry of 350 five-man teams which was the largest state entry in the history of ten pins. Janesville pledged itself to enter 600 teams.

The 643 score of E. Stein of Milwaukee, which led him into fifth position in the singles event was the only change among the first five leaders in all events at Monday's bowling session. By capturing fifth place he pushed C. Schmidt of Sheboygan down to sixth place.

Racine, Manitowish, Oshkosh, Appleton and Green Bay pin artists will launch another attack on the marbles at Tuesday's festivities.

Judson G. Rosebush left Monday on a western trip which will mean his absence from the city for several weeks.

PINDLE WINS, 150 TO 60 IN IVORY TILT WITH HART JES

Big Gallery Watches Champion And Little Chute Man Perform On Arcade Tables

Showing excellent form, Harold Pindle, state pocket billiard champion, defeated Arthur Hartjes, Little Chute, 150 to 60 in their first game of the 450 flock exhibition match played Monday night on the Arcade tables.

Hartjes had Pindle in tight places for the first 50 points. The closest score was 53 and 49 with the champion leading. After Hartjes passed the 50 mark Pindle continued to take bigger strides, filling the pockets with averages of 20 points per inning. The high run was 27. Hartjes' best was 12. Pindle's shooting, was the first public exhibition in many months since he won the state title a year ago at Madison. His shooting wasn't sensational but very consistent.

The match attracted one of the biggest galleries this season. More than 100 persons saw the contest.

The second round of 150 points between Hartjes and Pindle will be played on the Little Chute tables Thursday night and the final affair will be played off in Appleton at a later date with the Arcade green as the scene of action.

FONDY TEAM BOWLS 3,087 IN MATCH

Fond du Lac—The Big Five of North Fond du Lac and the Hutter Construction company bowlers rolled big scores in their match game on the Imperial alleys last night. The North Fondy team scored 3,087 pins and the Hutter gang registered 2,928.

Peterson of the North Fond du Lac team rolled the highest individually getting 225, 223 and 204 in the series of three games. Marinar was next with 200, 211 and 214. The villagers went well over the thousand mark in every game, while the city team went over 1,000 but once.

There is a great deal of rivalry between these two aggregations and they have been staging match series all through the season. Both quintets plan on taking in the state tournament at Green Bay.

2 APPLETON TEAMS PLAY DOUBLEHEADER

Kaukauna—A special attraction in basketball has been arranged for Kaukauna fans for Thursday evening when two Appleton teams will play two local squads in a doubleheader. The Interlakes will meet the Mulford Clothing team while another Appleton team will furnish opposition for the DeMolay Maroons. The Mulford quint has been going good in the last month or two and has won the last six games. It is reported that the Interlakes lineup has been bolstered up for the fracas and a lively battle is in prospect.

The DeMolay team won the second game it played when it nosed out Kimberly in an overtime duel. The last few weeks of practice have resulted in great improvement in the squad.

SWEDEN BUILDS ROADS TO HELP UNEMPLOYED

By Associated Press
 Stockholm — Six hundred miles of highway were constructed in Sweden during 1922 by men who otherwise would have been without employment. The government allotted funds to this end, and the work was done in large measure near the centers of unemployment. It was discontinued when employment in the district began to pick up.

It is predicted that the number of unemployed needing help in Sweden during the first half of 1923 will be only about 24,000, and that by 1924 this number can be reduced to 6,000.

There is a great deal of rivalry between these two aggregations and they have been staging match series all through the season. Both quintets plan on taking in the state tournament at Green Bay.

MINSTREL FANS ENJOY NIGHT OF LAUGHS AT PLAY

First Performance Of Scout Benefit Production Is Well Presented

The Rotary and Lions clubs promised the people an evening of fun and a great variety of entertainment in their minstrel show for boy scout benefit. The first performance took place at Appleton Theatre on Monday evening and fulfilled those promises. It is hard to pick headlines acts in a home talent production but on the basis of laughs per minute, "The Country Store at Greenville" and the black face sketch by Auld and Sherman vied with each other for top place.

But let's begin at the beginning and go right through the program and, as the trishman says, "Give the devil his due." The curtain went up to disclose many of the prominent business men all dressed up in tuxedo dress suits and wearing their faces as black as "Ebony Sam." The end men were dressed up in white satin and purple giving them a very "grand" look.

MOVES SWIFTLY With many jokes and much music this act went whizzing right along. The end men were funny and pulled some good jokes. C. L. Chamberlain as Mr. Tangle had an exceedingly good time. His facial gymnastics and comedienne during the show made it hard for the audience to watch him and the person who was singing and performing in the center of the stage, Leslie Buchanan as Mr. Grof gave a demonstration of terpsichorean art and so did William Harwood as Mr. Quimbo. He accompanied them with a song "Thumps Long" as the fourth son of man chimed in with some good local hits of gossip and joke.

Incidental solos were given by Lester Tallet and Ralph Hiker. The scout quartet including Ellsworth Stiles, Harold McGilgan, John Phillips and Ralph Hiker sang one number. Thomas Ryan, Jr. was the soloist when the boy scout's marched into the act. The comedienne of the program was presented when Lee C. Rasey, the intercomer, invited the circle to accompany him on a birthday trip about the country. The circle members took their places in the train in the boxes at either side of the audience and visited several places of note. Between acts, the circle furnished amusement for the crowd.

LIKE PIANO DUEL

The next act was the piano duel by Mrs. Erle Lindberg and Miss Helen Bright. Both of whom showed themselves to be able pianists. They were assisted in the latter part of their program by Arno Westphal, saxophonist; Irving Auld, banjo player; and Harold Ode, violinist.

"The first place visited by the circle was the 'Country Store at Greenville' with its castful of funny characters who kept the audience laughing every minute. Carl McKee, as the red headed and not too brilliant son of the mistress of the store, and Miss Dorothy Peterson, well known Appleton comedienne, as (wendoline), the village child, chief, while a side-singing pair, Phron, came, Harry Oaks as the sheriff and W. S. Ford as Bud Trevey, playing the parts of the rivals for the hand of Mathilda, played by Miss Rosetta Segal; they were as funny as could be and every sentence brought out a roar of laughter from the audience. Louis Lazar as the hymn book selling, moonshine peddling preacher was as funny as a cat on Monday and Mrs. Harry Oaks as the pretty school marm made a heart flutter. The skit is a scream.

ENJOY DANCES

The tea garden offered a variety of song and dance numbers one of the most interesting and charming of which was the dance of the dollies in which Miss Margery Davis was assisted by the Misses Joan DeBaurer, Juliette Cameron, Virginia Oaks, Jean Shannon, Jane Pierce and June Kaufman. Three of the little girls were dressed as wooden soldiers and there was pretty French doll. Miss Margaret Austin and a pretty college girl chorus filled a in the mirror method in "Ye a Corner in My Heart." Carl McKee was the soloist in "There's to Love and Success" assisted by the mixed chorus of patrons of the tea garden. Miss Dorothy Adell and Miss Dolly Chamberlain each did an interludic dance. The finale was given by the entire company.

Auld and Sherman then put on their sketch which brought out much mirth from the audience. These college boys are clever comedians and have a good line of jokes and funny songs. Their act seems spontaneous and not studiedly funny as so many acts put on by youthful jokesters. The finale of the program included every member of the cast.

BEG PARDON

Mrs. Anton Kolitsch, Vine-st. reported this morning that she was not critically ill as reported in The Post-Crescent. It is Mrs. Barbara Kolitsch, Locust-st. who is seriously ill.

SIMPLICITY IS MAKING DRIVING OF AUTOS EASIER

Abolition Of Levers Now Is Aim Of Engineers—Many Other Changes

Automotive engineers and inventors are planning to make things easier for the auto driver.

Their combined efforts of late have brought such results as to take the lie out of the name "pleasure car" for any automobile. Only a few years ago, a driver used to curse the man who picked that name, while he tried to replace a punctured tire or climb a hill without developing a knock.

Now, engineers have gone so far ahead in perfection of the engine—although there is much more to be done here—that they are directing their inventive faculties toward improving details.

For instance, one auto manufacturer has decided to do away with levers on his car. Instead, the auto maker shifts is installed. Even the emergency brake lever is abolished, and in its place is a brake that operates from the dash. The controls for gear shifting are on the wheel, below the steering wheel.

CONTROLS IMPROVED
The dash instruments are being improved, simplified and collected into one group. In one case, all instruments are put over the center of the steering wheel, so that the driver will watch them more closely.

A western inventor has designed an apparatus by which a tire may be removed or attached by the mere turning of a single lug. That if it proves efficient ought to take the last worry of the mind of the driver, as regards tires. For the tire makers have improved that part to such a degree, that there is little more trouble with it.

Lubrication of the chassis is simple. On some cars, all the driver has to do is push a hand pump on the dash and the punctures of moving parts on the car are oiled. The pressure system of oiling has superseded the old hand methods.

SIMPLICITY SOUGHT

Everything new is a step toward simplicity—and ease for the driver. Practically all parts have been made easily accessible. Squeaks are being taken out of the bodies. The electric wiring is simple and the whole ignition system, on most cars, is more easily understood by the lay driver.

Accessories are being made to add to the comfort of the rider and ease in driving. Headlights are being designed which will take the glare out of the eyes of oncoming auto drivers and at the same time illuminate the road more fully than heretofore. Professor R. C. Gowdy of the University of Cincinnati has designed a headlight that he says will do all this. And besides, ordinary window glass takes place of the powerful lenses in other lights. The reflector, he explains, does the work.

Manufacturers are allowing for attachment of other helpful accessories. For instance, brackets are attached to the chassis for bumpers, so they will stay on securely.

Gone Forever

"Them Days" when the Post-office under John M. Baer Had Five City Mail Carriers and No Rural Delivery Are Only a Reminiscence Now.

Reminiscences aired by veterans at the annual get-together party of members of Appleton Postoffice association and their families last week showed the workings of the postoffice 25 years ago to be less complex than they are now.

There were but five carriers in these days and delivery was made not in receptacles, but through the doors. The carriers were required to ring the doorbell and wait until some one answered. There was no rural free delivery system in those days, although carriers took mail over star routes to outlying villages.

An old photograph was unearthed this week which shows the entire clerical staff of January, 1897. The postoffice was then located at Carroll Music shop. John M. Baer was postmaster, L. J. Robinson, assistant postmaster and money order clerk, William H. Zuehlke, mailing clerk, Maurice S. Peerenboom, stamp and general delivery clerk and Harry K. Pratt, part time stamping clerk. Fred Meyer, who later became the first rural carrier, and William B. Robinson, were mail messengers.

MASONS MAY FORM DE MOLAY CHAPTER

Organization Of Juvenile Lodge Will Be Taken Up At Meeting Thursday

Organization of a DeMolay chapter among Appleton boys will be considered at a general meeting of all Masonic members at 8 o'clock Thursday evening in Masonic hall. The gathering is called by the local advisory committee of the DeMolay movement, of which W. E. Smith is chairman.

Appleton chapter of the Masonic order is sponsoring the formation of the juvenile lodge. It includes boys between the ages of 16 and 21 years and is open to Mason's sons and others who are vouched for by Masons.

The ritual consists of two degrees and the aim of the DeMolay order is to encourage right living among boys, its organization will be described by speakers who are familiar with the movement, which is national in scope.

Members of the advisory committee beside the chairman are H. J. Behnke, secretary, G. H. Packard, Paul Hackbert, R. A. Buxton, William Kress, Fred Agrell, William Kooeks, Walter Ingenthron and Frank Young.

KIMBERLY FIRM ADDS TO CAPITAL

Manufacturing Company Alters Name—Nichols Concern Organizes

Amendment to the articles of incorporation of Kimberly Manufacturing and Supply company has been filed with Fred Zimmermann, secretary of state, and forwarded for recording to the office of A. G. Koch, register of deeds, changing the name of the company and increasing its capital stock by $50,000.

The corporation will hereafter be known as the Home Supply company. The stock is raised from $50,000 to $100,000. Martin Wydeven is president and J. S. Wynboom is secretary of the company.

Articles of incorporation have been filed by the Nichols Manufacturing company of Nichols to manufacture and sell the Dail-Miro Glare Shield and other automobile accessories and supplies, as well as metal and wooden toys, novelties and mechanical appliances. The capital stock is given as $25,000. Owen R. Dailley, Morris Mirochuk and Katherine Dailley are the incorporators.

COUPON SOLVES PERSONAL TAX IN OTHER COUNTIES

Misunderstanding have arisen in respecting the relation of personal property tax in other counties to income tax paid in Outagamie and Waupaca counties. Anton Oppgaard, acting assessor of incomes for these two counties, has announced that a man living in these counties and having personal property tax to pay in other counties should pay his personal property tax and then secure an offset coupon to the income tax from the assessor of incomes where the personal property tax is paid. The offset coupon can then be used in payment of income tax in this county.

Only Gas! PAIN AROUND HEART AND PALPITATION OFTEN DUE TO GAS PRESSURE

Heart trouble is seldom accompanied by pain. Those sharp, knife-like pains felt in the region of the heart, after eating, usually result from gas in the stomach pressing against the heart and interfering with its action. Neglect of this condition may lead to more serious trouble, hence you should lose no time in getting rid of the cause of gas.

Baalman's Gas Tablets are wonderful for the relief and prevention of gas. They act upon the stomach nerves and glands, promoting digestion and helping to correct the weakness responsible for the trouble.

You can obtain the genuine Baalman's Gas Tablets, in the yellow package from Schantz Bros. Price one dollar. J. Baalman, Chemist, San Francisco, adv.

PE-RU-NA

Endorsed by Minister of the Gospel

"A case of Flu left my system heavily charged with catarrh. Having heard of Pe-Ru-na for catarrh I decided to try it. I took as directed and want to say as a minister of the Gospel, I have never used a medicine as good as Pe-Ru-na for catarrh."

Rev. Joseph S. Dillard,
Williamsville, Wayne Co., Missouri.

The value of Pe-Ru-na in thousands of such cases has been demonstrated just as positively and satisfactorily as in the experience of the Rev. Dillard. The results he obtained are but normal and what one would naturally expect from a medicine which has stood the test of more than half a century.

A Manufacturer's Season End

Sale of Furs

Brings a Great Series of Unequalled Savings

Miss Martinsen found a New York furrier with a huge stock of furs. By special arrangement—she was able to secure a BIG SHIPMENT of these furs. We agreed to put them on sale at the LOWEST PRICES of the year! This Sale will last just one week—all remaining furs will be returned at the end of that time.

Thousands of Dollars Worth of the Handsomest Fur Coats

SEVENTY-FIVE of the most graceful—the most becoming fur coats you have ever seen. These coats are identical with handsome models sold in New York this season—but they are LOWER IN PRICE! Only the choicest furs are used. Squirrel, mink, Hudson Seal, beaver, mole, raccoon and mole are shown. There is a wide variety of styles.

The BARGAIN PRICES Have Never Been Surpassed

The selling season for fur coats is nearly at its end—THESE COATS MUST BE SOLD! Therefore—the manufacturer has arranged to quickly dispose of them at EXTERME LOW PRICES. Some are marked at less than cost of making them. They are extraordinary values. You will know it the minute you see them!

Many Beautiful Small Furs

The economical woman will be delighted with the bargains in smaller fur pieces in this Sale. Smart fur chokers, fur capes, fur scarfs and wraps are offered at very, very low figures. They are shown in the same big range of furs as the coats.

Every Piece GUARANTEED

These furs are sold with a written guarantee! The same guarantee that a full priced fur is sold with. These furs are not only beautiful luxuries—at these prices they are INVESTMENTS.
